TARIFF TO DIE IF NOT PASSED NOW, IS CLAIM

Doom of Measure Seen Unless Acted Upon at Special Term.

PRESIDENT IS COLD TO BILL AS SHAPED

CHIEFS OF SENATE CALLED TO PARLEY

(Associated Press.)

Unless Congress completes action on the tariff bill at this special session, it is quite unlikely that President Hoover will ask for such legislation at the regular session, beginning in December.

With the Senate and House already in deadlock on vital provisions, enactment of the bill before the special session of Congress expires automatically at noon on December 2 is regarded here as practically impossible.

It is no secret that President Hoover is indifferent about the measure as the Senate is shaping it and few leaders, either of the Senate or House, expect him to sign any bill shearing the Chief Executive of authority to increase or decrease tariff duties as the Senate measure would do.

Hoover Summons Leaders.

During his seven months in office, Hoover has acted for the relief of some portions of agriculture and while the process of obtaining necessary facts is rather cumbersome under existing law it is believed that the President would much prefer even such slow moving machinery to no machinery at all.

The Chief Executive summond to the White House today three of the group leaders in the senate—Watson of Indiana, chief of the regular Republicans; Borah of Idaho, leader of the western group of independent Republicans, and Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader. He interviewed each separately.

Senator Borah said tariff had been discussed but beyond that he refused to go. The opposing party leaders were even more reticent, but it was believed that Hoover had made clear to each of them his views regarding the present muddled tariff legislation situation.

Republican Charges Delay.

A charge by a Republican that leaders of his own party were delaying enactment of the tariff bill had as its sequel in the Senate yesterday an announcement by Chairman Smoot, of the finance committee, that today he would move for the beginning of night sessions in order to expedite action.

Senator Johnson, of California, hurled the filibustering accusation in passing judgment on the fact that the Senate had spent five hours on a Democratic amendment which was adopted ultimately by an overwhelming vote.

He contended the managers of the bill knew what the outcome of the ballot was going to be and could have saved the whole day by agreeing at the outset.

Amendment Is Carried.

The amendment approved yesterday by a vote of 68 to 11 would set up in the Tariff Commission another Government agency to be known as the office of consumers counsel, with a $10,000 four-year term attorney at its head. He would have authority to represent the general consuming public before the commission in all rate applications.

Thirty-three Republicans joined 35 Democrats for the amendment, while all eleven opponents were old guard Republicans. Those voting in the negative were Senators Allen, Dale, Edge, Fess, Goldsborough, Hastings, Herbert, Moses, Phipps, Smoot and Warren.

Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, just before the roll call, said he was about to cast a "cynical" ballot for it. He said the new office would be useless, but he was not going to throw himself open to the inevitable accusation that he was opposed to the interests of the consumer.

Johnson Resents Charge.

Johnson said the only deduction he could draw from the "spectacle," as he termed the debate, was that the managers of the measure, excluding Chairman Smoot, of the finance committee, were trying to filibuster.

Smoot had called attention to the time spent on the amendment and was urging a little more haste when Johnson, jumping to his feet in a rage, said it was the fault of the bill's proponents because they knew when

Buck and Three Aids Arrested As Stock Fraud Conspirators

William Forsythe, Post Staff Photographer

Woman, Once Employe of Brokerage Concern, Among Accused.

Benjamin R. Buck, who until recently operated a brokerage shop in the Evans Building under the name of Buck & Co., and three of his former associates were placed under bond yesterday afternoon to answer charges contained in a Federal warrant that they conspired to violate the District of Columbia bucket shop law. The others charged are Miss Edith C. Freas, said to be former treasurer of the company; Harry Williams and Michael Drain, who also held responsible positions.

Buck and Miss Freas surrendered to United States Deputy Marshals John J. Clarkson and C. Cerimele at the office of United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage. Williams and Drain were taken into custody by the two deputies at the Mississippi Apartments, on W street northwest, between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets.

Buck was placed under $5,000 bond while the others were freed after posting bonds of $3,000 each. Milton S. Kronheim, professional bondsman, went surety for Buck and Miss Freas, while Edward Buckley, also a professional bondsman, was surety for Williams and Drain.

The charge against Buck is the second in connection with his operations as a stock broker. He was arrested September 11 on a Federal warrant charging embezzlement in connection with a stock transaction, which was sworn to by Z. Asbury Gill, of Rehobeth Church, Va., and was placed under $10,000 bond to await action of the grand jury on that charge.

Buck, Miss Freas, Drain and Williams each entered pleas of not guilty when arraigned before Commissioner Turnage. Hearing was set by the commissioner for October 31.

The warrant specifically charges that the four defendants "did unlawfully conspire, confederate and agree together with each other to violate a law of the United States, to wit, section 869-A, B and C of the District of Columbia code, the same being an act of Congress approved March, 1909, and among others committed the following overt acts: Said Buck maintained an office at rooms 311-314

Inverted Pyramid Idea Applied to Apartments

Chicago, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Inverted pyramids of glass, copper and concrete with steel furnishings have been designed by Frank Lloyd Wright, the architect, for four eighteen-story apartment buildings to be erected on property of St. Marks-in-the-Bouwerie, New York.

In a city where the setback is an established architectural feature, these buildings, with abuttments on each story, will rise early in 1930.

"These structures," Wright said, "will be built around a concrete core running through the center of them, the whole resting on a concrete base set in bedrock."

$2,000,000 Rum Ring Profit in Half Year

Captured Note Book Reveals Huge Operations of Syndicate That Declared Dividends Weekly. Large Outlays in Canada Revealed.

New York, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Operating all the way down the Atlantic seaboard from Maine to the Virginia Capes, the gigantic rum-smuggling syndicate whose extensive properties here and in New Jersey were raided last night, made a $2,000,000 profit in six months, Federal officials revealed today.

To the office of William J. Calhoun, New Jersey prohibition administrator, in Newark, was taken today a little black notebook picked up last night in the mansion at Highlands, N. J., which was visited simultaneously with 31 other of the syndicate's centers, scattered all the way from Sandy Hook to New York City.

In that notebook, Government men said, where set down the syndicate's transactions, indicating a $2,000,000 profit in a period of six months.

Quoting from the notebook, officials said the ring last March spent $700,000 in Montreal "for ships, the purchase of merchandise and operating expenses." During another month the syndicate spent in Montreal $200,000, and during a third month, $75,000.

The book revealed that heads of the syndicate declared weekly dividends of from 7 to 23 per cent.

Nine men comprised the "board of directors" of the syndicate, and the Lillien brothers, William and "Al," were the actual heads, it is charged.

Neither of the Lilliens has been arrested, although both were secretly indicted by a Federal grand jury in Trenton last Tuesday.

While the raid was actually in progress in the old mansion at Highlands, which was headquarters for the whole ring, William Lillien called up from Montreal, agents said. Deputy U. S. Marshal James J. Donnelly answered the telephone.

Donnelly said Lillien inquired about the progress of a garage that was being constructed near the mansion—a garage with three 12-foot doors and a gas pump near its entrance.

"It's nearly done—we're putting the roof on now," Donnelly said he told him, "and you'd better hustle down here. We'll need you to help get going on the holiday rush."

Donnelly said that Lillien, apparently thinking he was talking to one of his associates, agreed to come. Agents said they did not know where "Al" Lillien was.

While New Jersey Federal men studied the little black notebook and described incidents that occurred during the 32 simultaneous raids, U. S. Attorney Charles H. Tuttle and Assistant U. S. Attorney Robert B. Watts in New York declared that the syndicate had foreign agencies in England, Canada, and elsewhere, and held virtual monopoly on all liquor smuggling from Maine to the Virginia Capes.

Watts declared that two large New Jersey banks were involved as the ring's finacial backers. These banks, he said, put up big sums of money which were used by the smugglers to purchase enormous amounts of Scotch whisky in England.

Watts also said the Government has evidence that several prominent and highly respected lawyers had received large fees for services rendered to the ring and indictments will be sought against them. He said several Coast Guard officers were involved in the ring.

All of the nearly 20 men arrested in last night's simultaneous raids were arraigned today, 5 of them here before U. S. Commissioner Garrett W. Cotter, and the rest in Trenton, N. J.

Bail ranged from $2,500 demanded for a defendant charged with being an ordinary henchman, to $30,000 set in the case of Malcolm McMaster, charged with having been the operator of the syndicate's radio station.

Harold Lindauer and Andrew Richards, charged with having been McMaster's associates in operating the radio station, were held in $25,000 bail each.

One Highball Aid to Health, Says Past Chief of Doctors

Liquor Prolongs Life, Adds to Its Joys, Martin Tells Congress.

Chicago, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Moderate use of alcohol during or after middle age was recommended today by Dr. Edward Martin, of Philadelphia, former president of the American College of Surgeons, at the eleventh annual clinical congress. Dr. Martin said he emphatically disapproved use of alcohol by younger persons.

"Liquor prolongs life and adds to its joys," observed Dr. Martin, who is white-haired and 70, "but it must be used moderately.

"When a man is fatigued, one highball is an excellent tonic," he added. "but it must not be too 'high.' When

SENATORS ASK FEDERAL HELP IN CITY INQUIRY

CONCRETE EVIDENCE ON CHARGES WANTED

Subcommittee Plans to Go Ahead on Chinese and Alien Cases.

INDICTMENT DELAY MAY BE EXPLAINED

Rover Will Be Questioned Over Withholding of Murder Count.

A Department of Justice agent, with the tremendous power and influence of the United States Senate behind him, will investigate charges of "inefficiency and corruption" in the District government, if Attorney General Mitchell grants a request to be made of him today by Senator Sackett (Republican), of Kentucky.

The Sackett subcommittee of the Senate District committee decided to ask the aid of the Department of Justice when it met yesterday afternoon to map out a program for its investigation of District affairs.

Senator Sackett, chairman of the subcommittee, explained that the agent would be given a free hand in his investigation and would make his reports to the subcommittee. The subcommittee then would act as it saw fit.

Concrete Evidence Lacking.

The truth of the matter is that the subcommittee has no concrete evidence of "inefficiency or corruption" in the local government, although the Commissioners and the chief of police have been severely criticized for not acting more efficiently in the McPherson murder case.

At its meeting yesterday the subcommittee also decided to go right ahead with an investigation of matters concerning Chinatown and the suspension of Policeman Robert A. Allen. First, however, the subcommittee will ask for written reports on these matters.

O. H. Brinkman, clerk of the Senate District committee, today will send out letters to three officials—United States Attorney Leo A. Rover, Police Court Judge Gus A. Schuldt and Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police.

Delay Explanation Sought.

Rover will be asked to explain when the indictment against those charged with the murder of Lee King was found by the grand jury and when it was returned to the office of the district attorney, and what assistant district attorney handled it, and why it was withheld from the court and from the public until the final day of the term of the grand jurors then serving.

Senator Cole A. Blease (Democrat), of South Carolina, who sponsored the investigation, has charged that the indictment in the King case was held up so long that a Chinese involved in the case had time to flee to his homeland.

Judge Schuldt will be asked to state how many persons here are allowed to carry concealed weapons, who those persons are and why they are given the privilege. He also will be asked what persons have been refused gun permits.

Tong Favoritism Alleged.

Senator Blease has charged that the three Chinese here who were allowed to carry revolvers are members of a rich and powerful tong. Chinese in the poorer and weaker tong, he declared, were denied the right to carry guns.

Maj. Pratt will be asked to explain why Policeman Allen was suspended when he set out to show that Virginia McPherson was not a suicide, as the police claimed, but had been murdered.

These matters—the King indictment, the gun permits and the case of Allen—all are mentioned specifically in the Blease resolution, and the subcommittee anticipates no trouble in its investigation of them.

Other Part Not Specific.

The other part of the resolution, however, is not so specific. It simply says that, if reports and newspaper articles are true, there is inefficiency and corruption in the local government, and calls for a thorough investigation of these reports.

It will be the job of the Department of Justice agent, if one is supplied to dig up something tangible, something that the subcommittee can use as a groundwork for its inquiry.

That the McPherson case, the Scrivener case and other police matters

STIMSON TO BE HEAD OF AMERICA'S GROUP IN NAVY CONFERENCE

ITALY SEEKS WARSHIP ACCORD WITH FRENCH

(Associated Press.)

Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of State, has been determined upon by President Hoover as head of the American delegation to the London naval limitations conference in January.

Whether Mr. Stimson will be the sole American delegate remains for future determination, but there seems to be a strong impression in some official circles that such will be the case.

Should Mr. Stimson be the only delegate, he undoubtedly would have as his chief advisers Hugh S. Gibson, Ambassador to Belgium, and Rear Admiral Hilary Jones, U. S. N., retired, who were the American delegates to the tripartite naval limitations conference held at Geneva in 1927 by call of President Coolidge.

Rumors Mention Borah.

The names of several senators have been brought into the unofficial discussions of possible members of the American delegation but there has been no indication at the White House as to just which ones are under consideration or whether any are. There has been talk of Borah, of Idaho, chairman of the foreign relations committee; Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader; Swanson, of Virginia, ranking minority member of the foreign relations committee, and several others.

Those who favor a sharp limitation in the size of the American delegation argue that since no general international political questions will be involved in the London meeting it would be unnecessary to have more than one principal delegate. Whether President Hoover leans to this view is another question.

Some political observers are of the opinion that since any treaty growing out of the conference will be subject to Senate ratification, it would appear to be logical that the President would name some members of that body as President Harding did for the 1921 conference in Washington.

Italy Seeks Paris Accord.

Rome, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Believing that a Franco-Italian agreement on naval disarmament would assure the success of the forthcoming five-power naval conference in London, Italy has broached with France the idea of reaching a preliminary understanding between themselves similar in scope to that reached by England and the United States.

An Italian government spokesman stated today that Italy already had sent a note to France proposing that they, the two chief Mediterranean powers, begin negotiations for an agreement on the strength of their navies.

Italy now is awaiting the French reply to this note, which was sent forward to Paris at the same time that the Italian acceptance of the British invitation to the conference was dispatched to London.

France Favors Discussions.

Paris, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—France, it was announced here tonight, is quite prepared to have preliminary conver-

BISHOP DEPLORES POLITICAL PULPIT

WARNS CHURCH CLASS

Richmond, Va., Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Bishop Collins Denny told a class being received into full church connection today at the 147th annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, in session here, that he had received hundreds of letters in which the writers threaten to leave the church unless partisan politics is kept out of the pulpit.

"My soul has been made sick by hundreds of such letters," he said. "We can not afford to drive people out of the church. Is politics of of that much importance?"

Bishop Denny told the class that "participation in partisan politics is going to cut your influence."

"The church, in its church capacity," Bishop Denny said, "has nothing to do with politis, and this conference has nothing to do with politics?"

"I am having difficulty in appointing men to charges because they would not keep out of politics," he said.

Referring to the doctrine of the virgin birth of Christ, Bishop Denny said that acceptance of this doctrine is essential to any one seeking admittance to full church connection. He said the resurrection of Christ was a fact.

Bright Officer "Fixes" Door Before He Raids

Percy Milton May, 29 years old, of Dent place, near Thirteenth street northwest, was arrested yesterday afternoon in second-floor quarters on Pennsylvania avenue near John Marshall place on charges of operating a handbook establishment there. He was released on $200 bond.

Sixth Precinct Sergt. J. C. Maloney and Policeman S. G. Holladay said they placed on charges against fifteen other men found in the rooms, where entry was gained by pushing down a door which Policeman Holladay said he had prepared for the raid on the previous night by removing long nails and bolts and inserting tiny nails in their place.

BINGHAM IS FLAYED FOR PAY TO EXPERT

GRILLED THREE HOURS

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Old Eli took a severe drubbing yesterday at the hands of this new-fangled movement that has come out of the South and Middle West and which respects neither learning, ancestry or any other tradition of the past. In fact, when Senator Hiram Bingham, who still bears the Yale classroom imprint, left the Senate subcommittee investigating lobbyists, he wondered if it respected senatorial courtesy.

No classroom ordeal of his could have ever been quite as bad. It was as though the committee senators, Caraway, Walsh, of Montana; Blaine and even Robinson, of Indiana, had been laying for him, and they must have been.

The Connecticut senator had just dropped by in that lanky, casual, complacent way of his to set the committee straight on the business of his taking the representative of the Connecticut Manufacturers Association into the executive hearings of the finance committee as his secretary. He just dropped by to make a statement and incidentally to read the committee the law bearing on the matter of Government employes receiving outside pay.

Concluding, he smiled disdainfully at his colleagues across the table and said: "So you see, we won't go to jail."

But that was not the end for the senator. The fact that he is so smart that it is a matter of common gossip around the Capitol that he can read a book three inches thick, didn't mean a thing to the committee senators. They began questioning him and after he had been standing on his feet for one hour and 15 minutes and his ordinary pallid features were beginning to show color that reaches to the roots of his very white hair, Senator Caraway said:

"Oh, sit down! You are going to be here quite a while yet."

And he was. He was before the committee about three hours in all.

sations on naval disarmament with Italy or any of the other powers concerned in the conference at London next January.

It was stated, however, that it had been thought here that these conversations could best be held through regular diplomatic channels, rather than by means of a separate conference, such as Italy has proposed. Nevertheless it was deemed conceivable that France might consent to participate in such a conference with Italy if this proved the most feasible manner of reaching an agreement on outstanding issues.

Hard Nut to Crack.

At Geneva Italy has clung to the "total tonnage" system which would give her liberty to distribute the tonnage through types of warships best suited to her needs. France, like the United States, is ready to accept the plan of limiting navies by classes or categories.

Parity is a harder nut to crack. Italy has frequently proclaimed her desire to have armaments, by sea, land and air, equal to those of any one other continental power. But France, having coast lines on the Atlantic as well as on the Mediterranean and possessing colonies in distant parts of the earth, insists that naval parity with Italy would be equivalent to inferiority, so far as France is concerned.

The French reason that Italy is a purely Mediterranean sea power. Therefore she could readily concentrate all her naval forces in those waters. This, among other advantages, would place Italy potentially in the position of being able to prevent transportation of French colonial troops from this country's possessions in northern Africa

$63,200 Pay Roll Money Is Looted

Armored Truck Is Found Abandoned; Driver Now Sought.

New York, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—An abandoned armored truck, from which police said $63,200 in pay roll money had been stolen, was found by police tonight on the lower West Side. Police sent out a general alarm for the chauffeur, Raymond A. Gallagher, whom they charged with the theft. One pay roll of $500 was left in the truck.

Police said Gallagher was locked in the car when it stopped in front of a bank, where a messenger and a guard made a deposit. The truck had disappeared when the two men emerged from the bank a few minutes later.

Two hours after the truck disappeared from in front of the bank a messenger boy delivered a package of empty pay roll envelopes, which had contained $63,200, to the office of Brink's Express Co., owners of the struck. The messenger said that a man answering Gallagher's description gave him the package to deliver.

Barber Shop Accused In Plea for Injunction

Allegations that persons enter a barber shop on Wisconsin avenue northwest, near Prospect street, in a sober condition and leave it intoxicated, are contained in a petition for a padlock injunction filed by the Government yesterday in District of Columbia Supreme Court.

The suit is directed against George Thomas Harper, alleged operator of the barber shop, and Hilda Wise, alleged owner of the property. The Government explains that it seeks to padlock only the first floor of the premises.

Study of Crime Cost Is Ordered

Goldthwaite H. Dorr, Is Namde for Survey by Enforcement Body.

(Associated Press.)

The cost of crime will be subjected to intensive study on behalf of the President's law enforcement commission by Goldthwaite H. Door, of New York.

Appointment of Door as expert consultant and advisor of the subcommittee charged with responsibility for investigation of that subject was announced yesterday at the conclusion of t three-day session of the commission.

He has had broad experience in the administration of criminal law, having been assistant United States attorney at New York City from 1906 until 1913 and special assistant to the Attorney General in 1920 and 1921. He was assistant director of munitions on the staff of the Secretary of War during the World War.

DISARMAMENT SEEN AS PEACE NECESSITY

World Must Make Up Mind to Drop Its Weapons, MacDonald Says.

PREMIER NOW IN OTTAWA

Ottawa, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—The world mind on disarmament must become settled before world peace is attained, in the opinion of Ramsay MacDonald.

The prime minister of Great Britain expressed this view today soon after his arrival at the government house, where he had come from Toronto for a three-day visit with Premier Mackenzie King, with whom he will discuss Canada's part in the peace movement he instituted with President Hoover.

After declaring in an interview that all members of the British commonwealth of nations would be represented at the coming five-power naval conference in London, MacDonald said his labor government in Great Britain sees "a world agreement on disarmament which is going to result in world pacification."

He said his purpose in visiting America was to create an atmosphere favorable to a further conference on the naval question, and the issue embraced much more than the attitude of the two pioneering countries in the peace maneuver—England and the United States. No arrangements would be effected at the London conference in January, he said, without the knowledge and consent of each of the British dominions, and, final agreements will rest with the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy.

As to what he would discuss in his conversations with Premier King, MacDonald would say nothing except to suggest taking "with a large grain of salt" intimations in press dispatches that they would discuss demilitarization of Halifax.

The prime minister this afternoon was invited to the premier's summer home before attending as guest of honor and chief speaker at a government dinner tonight.

Mitchell Refuses RumBuyerOpinion

Only Supreme Court Can Decide Liability, He Tels Sheppard.

The liability to arrest of a purchaser of bootleg liquor can only be determined by the Supreme Court of the United States, Attorney General Mitchell said yesterday.

His statement was brought forth by the request he recently received from Senator Sheppard (Democrat), Texas, for an inquiry to determine the purchaser's liability. The Attorney General declined to express his own opinion on the question, adding that he had turned Senator Sheppard's inquiry over to the prohibition division for investigation.

Mitchell expressed belief that a recent ruling by a circuit court of appeals in Philadelphia, holding that the buyer was not liable to arrest, did not provide a proper test of the question, since the case was based upon conspiracy to violate the law through buying.

Proportion Is Called First Thing in Living

Msgr. Edward A. Pace, professor of philosophy at Catholic University, yesterday addressed the student body of Howard University on "The Sense of Proportion," as the first thing in the arts and in the fine art of living. Problems which exist in science and philosophy, he stated, are largely due to inability of individuals to see things in their proper perspective.

"Most of the evils of life," Dr. Pace said, "have no great fault in them, but it is rather the excess to which they are carried."

GARFIELD TO HEAD LAND RIGHTS STUDY

GROUP TO ASSIST HIM

(Associated Press.)

James R. Garfield, who served as Secretary of the Interior under President Roosevelt, was selected by President Hoover yesterday to study the feasibility of turning surface rights of the public domain over to the public lands States, a proposal which Hoover made to the governors of those States six weeks ago.

The commission which Garfield will head has before it the task of deciding the feasibility of the proposal and, if it is found feasible, the formation of a plan for the transfer which would meet the approval of Congress as well as the various public lands States.

The proposa. to transfer the land to the Western States in which it lies was first made by Secretary Wilbur at a reclamation conference of Western governors at Boise, Idaho, in July.

President Hoover later wrote Assistant Secretary Dixon, of the Interior Department a letter in which he outlined in detail the Wilbur proposal.

This letter was read to another governor's conference in Salt Lake City.

Under the plan, as outlined by him, the Federal Government would cede to the States the control of all surface rights to public lands with the exception of National forests, National parks, and National monuments.

The Federal Government would retain all mineral rights, including oil.

Secretary Wilbur said that even the National forest might be turned over to the States if proper conservation legislation was passed by the various State legislative bodies.

A total of 200,000,000 acres of unappropriated and unreserved public lands would be affected by the transfer, most of it lying in the States west of the Colorado-Nebraska State line.

The largest single area is in Nevada, where 71 per cent of all the land is public domain.

California, with over 20,000,000 acres of public domain, is the second largest public land State, and Utah is third.

Proposing the commission to the governors of the various States affected, President Hoover said he felt the great problem of controlling grazing on the public lands could be handled more satisfactorily by the States than it is being handled through long-distance legislation and administration from here.

The President said that water conservation, which, he maintained, was the greatest single problem of the Western States, could be handled by the States more satisfactorily than by the Federal Government, although the Federal Government, he said, would continue to interest itself in the construction and development of reclamation projects.

These reclamation projects, under the plan, would be turned over to the States or local communities for administration after the Government's investment is guaranteed.

Governors of the Western States and their representatives in Congress have been asked by President Hoover and Secretary Wilbur to suggest names of persons they felt were qualified to serve on the commission which Garfield will head.

Secretary Wilbur said yesterday that he was still receiving names and until all those interested had completed their suggestions other members of the commission would not be selected.

SLAIN ADVENTURER'S BODY IS IDENTIFIED

KNEE SCAR TELLS STORY

New Orleans, La., Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Standing before an open shallow grave in the Mississippi River batture 50 miles below New Orleans tonight, George Kraft, of New York, between sobs, identified an exhumed body as his wandering brother, Jack, lost overboard from the steamship Creole near the point a week ago tonight. The body bore a bullet wound near the heart.

Miss Ione Ord, pretty traveling companion of Jack Kraft, held by officers during the investigation of the death of Kraft, fainted twice at the grave when pressed for identification of the body and questioned about the circumstances leading up to his disappearance from the ship. She admitted that the body "might be Jack."

Kraft positively identified his brother by a scar below his left knee. On his first look into the grave Kraft concluded, "That's him. That's the tattoo, his arm and everything." To remove all doubt he asked Sheriff Ernest Alberti of Plaquemines Parish to bare the left knee of his brother in search of a scar. The trouser leg was slit and all doubt was cleared. The dramatic scene was enacted in a neighborhood of trappers down in Plaquemines Parish before Leander H. Perez, district attorney of St. Bernard and Plaquemines Parishes, and Gilbert L. Stanelliff, New Orleans superintendent of a private detective agency.

The girl, between swoons, choked out words about her trip with Kraft aboard the steamer from New York while the group was seated about the spot on logs.

At first she maintained the torso was not as broad as Jack and sketched a tattoo of a woman that failed to fit the Indian figure on the victim's arm. But later the girl whispered. "I'm not sure. It may be Jack."

Liquor Slips From Car, Police Say; Driver Held

Caught at Eastern and Rhode Island avenues northeast at 7:50 o'clock yesterday morning after a brief automobile chase which started on the Bladensburg road when police said several bottles of liquor slipped from the pursued machine, Myman Levin, 19 years old, of Nineteenth street near Monroe street northwest, was arrested on charges of transportation and possession of 144 half-gallon liquor-filled jars.

Sergt. G. M. Little and Policeman G. C. Deyoe, of the police liquor squad, jailed Levin at the Second Precinct Station on charges also of reckless driving and driving with "dead" tags.

FALL SITS THROUGH TIFF ABOUT HEALTH

DENBY TESTIMONY READ

(Associated Press.)

The condition of Albert B. Fall's health led to disagreement between opposing counsel yesterday as to whether and how his bribery trial should continue, with the result that the ailing defendant ultimately sat through the afternoon session while presentation of testimony on his behalf went on.

Defense attorneys asked at a noon conference with Justice Hitz that the former Interior Secretary be excused from the session because of a setback in his illness.

Government counsel insisted, however, that if Fall was too ill to be in court the case should be recessed until today.

Recess Declined by Fall.

Fall refused to take advantage of this offer and appeared at the afternoon session.

Frank Hogan, chief of defense counsel, announced that Fall had been on a "verge of collapse" during the afternoon and had been kept up by strychnine injections administered by his physician, Dr. H. T. Safford.

Members of Fall's family said they would bring him to court again today.

Denby Testimony Is Read.

Much of the time yesterday was occupied by reading to the jury testimony by the late Edwin Denby, Secretary of the Navy in the Harding Cabinet, and the late Edward L. Doheny, jr., given at the Fall-Doheny conspiracy trial here three years ago.

The testimony of young Doheny described bringing $100,000 to Fall in Washington on November 30, 1921.

Character Witnesses Called.

The defense also called several prominent residents of New Mexico, who testified that Fall had a reputation for integrity in the community in which he resides.

Hogan announced after adjournment that Edward L. Doheny and Mrs. Doheny would be called today.

The slow progress of the trial yesterday made it improbable that the case would reach the jury before late next Monday or on Tuesday.

Headless Body Of Woman Found

Two Rings, One Lacking Its Diamond, Only Clews to New Mystery.

Yonkers, N. Y., Oct. 17 (A.P.).—The headless body of a woman found in a clump of woods in Greenburgh near the St. Andrews Golf Club at Mount Hope last night gave the police their second murder mystery in a month.

A wedding ring set with a diamond and another ring from which a stone had been removed from its setting were the only clews in the latest mystery.

County Medical Examiner Squire said the woman had been dead some time. No clothing was found near by and police are searching for the head as a possible means of identification.

Less than a month ago Mrs. Elso Marshall, 24, was slain at Knollwood in the Greenburgh section and her assailant has not yet been found.

Capital Boys Display Interest in Aviation

With seven outstanding representatives of the District Model Aircraft League competing in Louisville, Ky., today and tomorrow for championships with boys from all over the country in the finals of the third national playground miniature aircraft tournament, interest in the building and flying of model planes in this city is constantly on the increase.

There are now eleven "aces" among the boys in the league, recent additions to the ace class being Luther Schmidt, Harry McGinness and Thomas Robbins.

Illinois State Body Picks Four Speakers

Secretary of War James K. Good, Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont, Alexander Legge, chairman of the Federal Farm Board, and Theodore G. Risley, solicitor of the Department of Labor, yesterday were announced as speakers of the Illinois State Society of Washington during the present season.

Decision also was reached by the society's executive committee, in conference with Senator Charles S. Deneen, of Illinois, to hold the next meeting on December 3, which will be the 111th anniversary of the admission of Illinois to Statehood.

GREEN REELECTED LABOR PRESIDENT

DISTRICT MAN HONORED

Toronto, Ontario, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Protracted debate over legislative proposals intended to advance labor's campaign against use of the injunction in industrial strife left the American Federation of Labor convention with unfinished business at tonight's adjournment. Before parting, however, the federation reelected all officers without contest and selected Boston as the place of its 1930 gathering.

The injunction problem was left for termination tomorrow, with most of its issues defined in the tensely worded discussion of the day.

William Green, accepting reelection for a sixth year as president, promised to "give my best thought" and said, "I don't know whether I can keep up the pace set in the last five years since Samuel Gompers died."

Morrison Acclaimed.

Frank Morrison, veteran secretary, was given an ovation upon his uncontested victory, and Martin F. Ryan, of Kansas City, treasurer, was renamed with similar enthusiasm. The list of reelected vice presidents included Frank Duffy, Indianapolis; T. A. Rickert, Chicago; Matthew Woll, Chicago; James Wilson, Cincinnati; James P. Noonan, Washington; Arthur D. Wharton, Washington, and Joseph N. Weber, New York City.

John J. Manning, secretary of the union label department, was named delegate to the British Trades-Union Congress; Thomas E. Malloy, of Chicago, of the Moving Picture Operators, was elected Manning's associate by a vote of 22,008 to 5,735 over T. C. Cashen, of Buffalo, of the switchmen's organizaion. Adolph Kummer, of the Cincinnati central labor body, was unanimously chosen delegate to the Canadian Labor Congress.

Warns of Court Ruling.

To carry forward the long fight of trades unions against court injunctions, the resolutions committee proposed that the executive council be authorized to present to Congress "a measure having for its purpose the amending or repealing of the Sherman, Clayton, or like restrictive laws, or parts thereof."

It declared necessary the enactment of another measure "to prevent the misuse of restraining orders and injunctions in labor disputes," and brought in the text of such a bill.

Andrew Furuseth, president of the Seamen's Union, said the proposed bill would arm the equity courts with more power to restrict union action and added that the Supreme Court would declare such an act unconstitutional in the very sections labor would most desire.

Matthew Woll, chairman of the resolutions committee said the question was of great complexity, but pleaded that "we are only weakening our position by arguing among ourselves."

Former Post Editor Lies Critically Ill

New York, Oct. 17.—John J. Spurgeon, former managing editor of The Washington Post, is in a serious condition at Lawrence Hospital, Bronxville, N. Y., where he underwent an operation several days ago.

Before his connection with The Post, Mr. Spurgeon served as managing editor of the New York World, and as editor of the Philadelphia Public Ledger. Of late he had been connected with the Fox Film Corporation in an editorial capacity.

Minister Faces Abduction Count

Woman Gets a Warrant After Two Children Are Kidnaped.

Los Angeles, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Mrs. Rose Phipps swore out a complaint charging abduction against the Rev. Paul Phipps, 27, of Littleton, Colo., today, after she reported to police that three men kidnaped two of her children, Thomas, 7, and Dorothy Mae, 6.

Mrs. Phipps, who said she is a widow, identified the Rev. Mr. Phipps as her brother-in-law and a Presbyterian pastor. She said her oldest child, Melvin, 11, witnessed the alleged abduction.

Melvin Phipps told police he and his brother and sister were returning home from scholo when a large automobile drew up beside them and one of three men stepped out and forced the two younger children into the car. He said the man was his "Uncle Paul," who told him to "run away for the police are coming after your mother."

AMERICANS SCORE AT BANK MEETING

WON'T PASS ON POLICIES

Baden-Baden, Germany, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Led by Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank of Chicago, the American delegates to the conference which is drawing organization plans for the new Bank of International Settlements, today engineered agreement on a veto clause protecting the position of the Federal Reserve Bank of the United States in connection with German reparations under the Young plan.

The clause, as adopted, relieves the Federal Reserve from the possibly embarrassing position of having to assent or dissent formally on policies of the International Bank. This might be embarrassing because the United States, as a Nation, has no official part in the conference.

The conferees were pleased at receiving an invitation from the committee on deliveries in kind, which now is meeting in Paris, to hold a joint session. The bankers gladly accepted this, and it probably will take place next week. The locale of the joint session has not been determined.

The bank conference will be represented by its subcommittee on trust agreements, of which Mr. Traylor is chairman. This subcommittee has found it impossible to proceed until it knows what the Paris committee proposes in respect to deliveries in kind. The interdependence of the two conferences arises from the fact that the trust agreement must contain time schedules for the various German payments, including those made under the guise of deliveries in kind.

Two More Old Estates On Market in England

London, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Two more famous British estates are going on the market.

The Duke of Leeds, John Francis Osborne, who is 28 years of age and succeeded to the title only two years ago, has decided to sell Hornsby Castle and the surrounding estate in North Yorkshire. The Duke of Buccleuch is selling Johnstone House in Dumfriesshire.

At the same time, Old Hurst Monceaux Castle, near Pevensey in Sussex, has been withdrawn from the market, the highest offer received being £175,000. The late Col. Claude Lowther, who greatly restored the estate, a few years ago refused an offer of $500,000.

STOCK LOSSES CUT AS PRICES REBOUND

Brisk Upturn Late in Day Offsets Big Slump of Wednesday.

SHORTS HURRY TO COVER

New York, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Prices rebounded in startling fashion in the last half hour of trading on the New York Stock Exchange today, a wide assortment of prominent issues selling up $5 to $18 from the low levels reached in yeesterday's drastic decline. The losses of the previous session were in many cases sharply reduced and in a few completely canceled.

The brisk upturn came after several hours of uncertain and confusing price movements and had the appearance of a rush of shorts to cover their commitments. U. S. Steel, after selling off more than $3 a share to $210.25 shot up to $219.25, a net gain of $5.75. Air reduction was a high flier, selling up $18. Montgomery Ward, after selling off about $5 in the early afternoon, more than regained its loss.

Such issues as American Telephone, American & Foreign Power, General Electric, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Radio, Simmons, Westinghouse Electric, Western Union, Johns-Manville and the American Tobacco shares closed about $5 to $10 above last night's closing prices. Corn Products reached a new high for the year at $126, and the International Paper & Power "A," "B" and "C" shares reached new high ground.

Adams Express appeared on the tape for the first time in three weeks, selling at $480, as against the last previous sale at $629.50.

Hialeah Flood Wave Gradually Receding

Miami, Fla., Oct. 17 (A.P.).—With cessation of flood waters that had been flowing south from the Everglades and absence of rainfall during the last 24 hours, surface water in Hialeah showed a drop of one and one-half to three and one-half inches today.

Both Mayor J. P. Grethen and W. J. Knox, city engineer of Hialeah, reported the situation in the town itself as considerably improved today.

In the western and Coral Gables area there was even greater improvement noted.

Exiled Nicaraguans Claim Plot to Have Them Slain

Shipped to Mexico, Say Eight Men at California Port, There to Be Executed as Rebels; Foiled Plan by Refusing to Leave Ship.

San Pedro, Calif., Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Eight former residents of Nicaragua one a former American college professor, arrived here today and charged they were "railroaded" out of their native land for their political beliefs.

The men, who also alleged the Nicaraguan government had plotted to land them in Mexico for execution, created a problem for United States immigration authorities because of their status of aliens ousted from their mother country.

The exiles are: Solomon de la Selva, former professor of Romantic languages at Williams College, Williamstown, Mass., spokesman for the group; Gabby Rivas, newspaper man; Adolfo A. Diaz, a newspaper man and a relative of former President Diaz of Nicaragua; Gustavo Manzanares, former member of the Nicaraguan Chamber of Deputies; Alfredo Rivas, a brother of the former President Solorzano of Nicaragua; Fernando Larios, politician; Enrique Aviles, one-time captain of Nicaragua's largest port, Corinto, and Adan Z. Morales, a Nicaraguan merchant.

Communications were prepared to government authorities at Washington appealing for permission to establish temporary residences in this country until they could alleviate opposition in Nicaragua and return home. Meanwhile the exiles were kept aboard the ship while officers here awaited instructions.

De la Selva said he and his companions were arrested in September at Managua, Nicaragua, and sent to Corinto for deportation. Charges of a conspiracy to overthrow the government and a plot to assassinate the president were placed against them although De la Selva said they were not served with a formal notice of the charges or given a trial.

He claimed they were handed passports to Chamerico, Guatemala, after sailing from Corinto, but that the government informed Guatemalan officials in advance to refuse them admission, and asked all Central American countries except Mexico to keep them at sea.

The spokesman asserted the Nicaraguan government then informed Mexican officials that the exiles once had planned an insurrection in Mexico and to allow them to land but to deal with them in the usual manner "which would be execution," De la Selva said.

COAST GUARD SHOTS AROUSE CANADIANS

(Associated Press.)

The firing by the Coast Guard last month on the Canadian ship Shawnee, which was mentioned by Assistant Secretary Lowman as a member of the smuggling fleet of the liquor ring uncovered by raids along the Atlantic Coast last night, has become the subject of diplomatic correspondence between the United States and Canada.

Acting on instruction from Ottawa, the Canadian Legation here has asked the State Department for a report on the firing on the Shawnee September 11 by patrol boat No. 145. The legation also submitted to the department the version of the incident as furnished to the Canadian government by Capt. John MacLeod of the Shawnee.

As Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of prohibition enforcement, Lowman said the Shawnee was a member of the smuggling fleet, the heads of which were the object of raids extending from New York to Atlantic City, N. J. He said it had been sighted off Ambrose Light, running without lights, on the occasion of the firing.

The affidavit of Capt. MacLeod alleged the Shawnee was fired upon 17 miles off the American coast, after he had replied to the challenge of the Coast Guard vessel by hoisting a British flag. He further said he had never been able to make more than 12 knots an hour with his vessel and that he was therefore outside the "one-hour's sailing distance" from shore provided in the rum smuggling treaty as the boundary for Coast Guard operations with suspected vessels.

In its report to Assistant Secretary Lowman, the Coast Guard said the ship was running without lights and that two live shells fired at the vessel were used only after three blank charges had been exploded.

The Canadian legation requested today that the latter be investigated thoroughly, and that the details be furnished to Minister Massey here for transmission to Ottawa.

IN MEMORIAM

BEREAVED.

How quietly he went to sleep.
In silenced passed; nor could I keep
His loving hand in mine to take
And bid him to my call awake.

O cruel death, that thus could part
A treasured son from mother's heart—
To leave me but a memory
In lonely days that are to be.

Dear son, though now the way is long,
Yet must thy mother's heart be strong;
True to the end I brave must be
Till God shall call me unto thee.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

VISIONS of European demands that America remove the fortifications at Panama, and Japanese demands that the British dismantle theirs protecting the great naval base at Singapore, are agitating naval experts here and in the British admiralty as a result of one phase of the conversations between President Hoover and Premier MacDonald.

That is the offer of Mr. MacDonald, about which almost nothing has been said, to remove the military defenses of four British naval bases close to American waters. These are Halifax, Bermuda, Kingston and Trindad.

President Hoover warmly welcomed the gesture by Mr. MacDonald, according to reliable authority, and the British premier said he would take it up while in Canada with Premier MacKenzie King.

The idea grew out of the conversations, it is learned, and was not on Mr. MacDonald's mind before he came to this country. This, at least, is the understanding here following receipt of information that the British admiralty was amazed when it learned of this angle, indicating that when Mr. MacDonald said, on arriving in this country, that he had the British government including the admiralty back of him, he was not thinking of this point, it not having been discussed with the admiralty.

* * * *

AT the Navy Department here there is no element of satisfaction over the idea of the British removing their guns from these four bases. It so happens that no one of them is really designed for action in a war between the United States and Great Britain. As a matter of fact, it is pointed out in the Navy Department, there is no gun larger than 6 inch in any one of these four fortifications.

The naval experts point out that it would not be possible for such defenses to resist a modern fleet. Were the British designing them against war with a first class power, the forts would be equipped with 15 or 16 inch guns, such as those which defend Panama and New York harbor.

The idea came to Mr. MacDonald, it is learned, when he was discussing with the President the wonderful example of the 5,000-mile frontier between Canada and the United States, which, leaving out the unfortunate incidents with respect to prohibition enforcement, has been unguarded and unprotected since the War of 1812.

It occurred to him that the British might make a similar gesture by removing the fortifications in their possessions so close to American shores. He was thinking in terms of world peace and good will, and so was President Hoover.

* * * *

BUT at the American Navy Department, and in the British admiralty, there is more cynicism than was felt by the two heads of States, anxious as they were to go further along this line laid down in the Kellogg peace pact.

"But what will the Japanese say about this?" inquired one admiral in commenting. "Will they not say that the British ought also to follow the Kellogg peace pact idea and cease building fortifications at Singapore? And will not the Japanese, and also, perhaps, the French and Italians, suggest that after all the Suez Canal has no fortifications, so why should the United States insist on big guns and forts at Panama?"

This view is the more interesting because nearly half the war games held by the United States Navy in the last ten years have had as their basic idea the defense of the Panama Canal. Due to the fact that a sudden declaration of war might catch the American Navy divided, even the possibility of the canal being bombed from the air has played an important part in these war games.

On the contrary the British have always felt that they had sufficient seapower to make the Suez Canal impregnable from naval attack. It has been complications in Egypt and to the east of Suez that have caused nervous chills to run up and down British spines occasionally, not the fear of an attack on the canal by the navy of some enemy.

* * * *

BUT the very essence of British naval strategy revolves around the naval base at Singapore still under construction. At the Washington Conference the British managed to get the line which should be the western boundary of the zone, including the Philippines, in which no new fortifications should be built, drawn well to the east of Singapore.

So the admiralty is very much perturbed at what bland suggestions may come on the heels of Mr. MacDonald's gesture with respect to the bases close to American waters. And the experts under Secretary Adams are wondering just how much embarrassed they are going to be at the suggestion to extend it to Panama.

It is not fair to say that the senator was completely knocked out in his encounter with the committee. The senator is never knocked out in debate. He frequently does not have the last word but then his expression is always one of smiling pity for his adversary, as if the adversary had simply added to his knowledge of anthropology. And this was his attitude toward the committee. Not even a committee can get far with a man like that.

Although explaining that he was well versed in aviation and archeology, the senator admitted that it was his lack of knowledge of tariff-ology that got him into trouble. Wanting to have expert assistance on the tariff needs of Connecticut for the present tariff fight, he explained, he wrote to the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association and asked them to suggest some one. They suggested Charles L. Evanson, their $10,000-a-year assistant to their president. Evanson was then here in connection with the tariff hearings. He had appeared, he himself testified, before the House ways and means committee.

Then, in order to bring him "under the discipline" of the finance committee, Bingham explained, he named him as his secretary. He went on the pay roll July 23 and went off August 21, turning the money he had received as the senator's secretary back to the real secretary who had been temporarily displaced.

"Surely you don't approve of falsification of the pay roll?" asked Senator Robinson.

"I don't like that word falsification."

"Well, your man signed the pay roll, but he didn't get the money," Robinson pursued. "Some one else got it. Don't you call that falsification? Isn't a pay roll designed to show who gets the money."

Bingham Explains Move.

The professorial senator insisted, however, that the procedure was simply for the purpose of bringing Evanson under the discipline of the finance committee. He related that Evanson had attended the committee's secret hearings until Chairman Smoot had told him objections were being made.

Other senators had their secretaries present, he said, although some of them would not permit theirs to attend. He had spoken to Chairman Smoot before he employed Evanson, he related.

Questioned as to why Evanson quit attending the meetings, Senator Walsh asked:

"Wasn't it because the chairman of the committee told you he couldn't come?"

"There wasn't any 'couldn't' about it," Bingham replied. "The chairman told me there had been some objection to it."

When Evanson, a youngish, well-appearing man, probably in his late thirties, appeared later on the stand, he revealed that while working for Bingham his expenses were paid here by the Connecticut Manufacturers Association. His expense account of $1,400 was introduced and it included one item for $50 for entertainment. Evanson insisted, however, that this item was in error.

Evanson revealed also that after he had returned his "secretarial" salary to the real secretary, he had found a check from Bingham for $1,000 awaiting him upon his return from his vacation.

He has not cashed it, he said, because he does not think he "is entitled to it."

Directed to Sign Pay Roll.

He was asked why he signed the pay roll as Bingham's secretary.

"Because I was directed to do so," he persisted.

Bingham, in fact, accepted full responsibility for Evanson's employment. While now willing to admit that it might have been "improper," he said that nevertheless the whole idea was his. He considered that Evanson's assistance had been invaluable.

When the senators continued to press him about the ethics of the procedure, he snapped:

"If I had known that it was the practice of minority members on the committee to secure experts in their office who are paid by the Government to do something else I probably should not have used this system.

"That practice was particularly noticeable," he said, looking squarely at Senator Walsh, "with certain prominent members of the minority."

He had reference to the practice of senators borrowing experts from the Tariff Commission to assist them in preparing data on the tariff bill.

"What is the essential difference," Walsh asked, "between the Tariff Commission assigning a man to answer these letters and the sending of a man to a senator's office to answer questions without the trouble of his writing?"

"None," replied Bingham, "if a senator is going to write letters enough to keep one man busy all the time."

"Inquisition" Is Protested.

Bingham repeatedly complained at what he called the "inquisition" and the nature of Walsh's questions, especially when the latter began questioning him about the rate increases Connecticut got in the bill. Walsh pointed out that of 50 commodities in which Connecticut is interested, increases were obtained on 44 while there was a reduction on one. Walsh said it meant that the "rest of the country" will have to pay an additional $76,000,000 to the protection that Connecticut already received. Bingham insisted that Connecticut paid taxes, however, and was entitled to protection.

At one juncture in this line of questioning, Walsh insisted on direct answers. There was a quorum call and Bingham said he had to respond to it.

"Oh, don't go," urged Caraway.

Bingham returned to his exchange with Walsh and his practice of beginning the answer of every question with "Because."

"Yes or no," Walsh insisted.

"Because——," Bingham began blandly.

Then Walsh appealed to Caraway, the chairman.

"You are appearing here at your own request," Caraway said, "and the committee had the courtesy to let you make a statement as you wished and when you wished."

"I appreciate the committee's courtesy," said Bingham.

"Then show it," snapped Caraway.

"The trouble with you, senator," admonished Walsh in a fatherly way, "is that you talk too much."

Bingham protested against Walsh's sarcasm, but the Montanan insisted he was trying to find out "how well Evanson did his job."

In objecting one time to Blaine's questions, Bingham said:

"I object to the effort to make me contradict myself. And I resent it and do not regard it as common courtesy."

Bingham Hits at Blaine.

At one time when Blaine said he understood Bingham, after a series of questions, Bingham retorted:

"I am surprised that you could understand anything."

Bingham appeared before the committee with a bundle of law books. He recited statutes purporting to show that the law against Government employes having additional employment applied only to the executive branch.

"That is your contention," observed Caraway.

"Am I on trial?" Bingham asked.

M'PHERSON MURDER ALIBI IS GONE OVER

U. S. Agents Discuss Case for First Time With Prisoner's Parents.

MYSTERY CAST IS SAME

Although the Department of Justice is believed definitely to have eliminated the possibility that Virginia Hurley McPherson took her own life, identification of her slayer does not appear imminent at the present stage of the investigation.

While several new theories as to the motive for Mrs. McPherson's death are believed to have been developed during the two weeks since the Federal operatives undertook to trace out a cold trail to a solution of the mystery, it is understood that at no time has there been any change in the cast of characters of the tragedy.

From the first, four suspects have stood out more prominently than any others as possible perpetrators of the murder, and so far as can be learned, the tremendous volume of information gathered by the Government agents in interviewing more than 200 witnesses has not eliminated any of these four, nor has it increased their number by suggesting any new suspects. Neither, it is believed, has the evidence gathered thus far served to throw the preponderance of suspicion definitely upon any one of the four.

Of these four suspects, one is Robert A. McPherson, jr., husband of the attractive young nurse whose body, garroted with the silken cord of her pajamas, was found on the floor of her apartment in the Park Lane on September 14. Young McPherson is now in the District Jail under indictment for the murder.

For the first time since they undertook to find the murderer of Virginia McPherson, agents of the Department of Justice yesterday interviewed Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. McPherson, sr. The parents of the young bank clerk were closeted with the Federal operatives for several hours yesterday afternoon and evening.

As a result of their interrogation, the Justice agents are believed to have established a comprehensive character analysis of young McPherson, and also to have checked thoroughly upon his alibi covering the night of September 12, during which his wife is believed to have met her death.

Among those who quizzed the McPhersons yesterday were J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Bureau of Investigation; John E. Laskey, special prosecutor appointed to take charge of the case by Attorney General William D. Mitchell; Thomas F. Cullen, operative in charge of the investigation; and numerous other agents and officials of the Department of Justice.

Drove to Mount Rainier.

No detailed report of young McPherson's alibi on the night of the tragedy has ever been made public.

According to a close friend of the family, the boy is said to have visited his wife early that evening, leaving shortly before 8 o'clock to attend a meeting of the athletic club of which he was a member. When the meeting adjourned, he and a group of friends are alleged to have made an automobile trip to Mount Rainier, Md., where they dropped off some members of the club at their homes, after which they returned to Washington.

Later, it is declared, McPherson called at the home of his aunt, where he remained but a few minutes before departing for the home of his parents nearby. After leaving his aunt's home, however, he stopped at a drug store in the neighborhood, it is said, finally reaching his parents' residence about 1 o'clock. His arrival, it is declared, awakened his father, and the two chatted a while before young McPherson retired.

Delve Into Estrangement.

The Federal operatives are believed also to have interrogated Mr. and Mrs. McPherson minutely with regard to the characteristics and mannerisms of their son in an endeavor to build a complete picture of his attitude toward life in general and his wife in particular. They were, it is believed, keenly interested in hearing of all details which might have any bearing upon the estrangement of young McPherson and his wife.

The investigators now are awaiting, with natural impatience, a complete report on the chemical analysis of Mrs. McPherson's viscera now being made at the laboratories of the University of North Carolina by Dr. James I. Bullitt, professor of pathology at the institution. This examination is expected to be completed and a report in the hands of Hoover some time tomorrow. By that time it is expected also that development will be completed of a set of X-ray plates made last Monday at the autopsy performed at Kannapolis, N. C. Pictures were taken of every portion of the girl's body.

Result Is Problematical.

What will be revealed by the chemical analysis and the X-ray films is still entirely problematical. Whether they will substantiate the earlier finding at the recent autopsy, which failed to show any possible cause of death other than strangulation, or whether they will reveal other injuries or traces of drugs or poison, can not be known until the report is completed.

It was stated authoritatively yesterday that there is "absolutely no foundation for any report that any arrest impends, or is being considered at this time."

If any new arrests are made, it was indicated, they will be based entirely upon the discovery of some new evidence not now in the hands of the Federal operatives.

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at 11 and recessed at 4:55 to 11 today.

Senator Johnson (Republican), charged that leaders of his own party were delaying enactment of the bill, and Chairman Smoot of the finance committee announced that today he would ask that night sessions be held to expedite action on the measure.

Adopted an amendment creating the office of consumers' counsel in the tariff commission.

Lobby investigating committee questioned Senator Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, about his employment of an official of the Connecticut Manufacturers Association to assist him in handling the tariff bill.

Sackett subcommittee of the District committee decided to ask the aid of the Department of Justice in its investigation of local affairs.

Received from the President the following nominations:

Raymond C. Brown, of Honolulu, to serve another term as secretary of the Territory of Hawaii; Smedley D. Butler, to be a permanent major general in the Marine Corps; Benjamin H. Littleton, of Tennessee, and Thomas S. Williams, of Illinois, to be members of the Court of Claims; Richard J. Hopkins, of Kansas, to be a Federal judge in Kansas.

HOUSE.

Met at 12 and recessed at 12:04 to 12 Monday.

Transacted no business.

will figure in this phase of the investigation seems almost certain. Senator Sackett said yesterday that he did not see how the subcommittee could very well steer clear of the McPherson case.

Sane Inquiry Promised.

"We are going to have a thorough investigation," Sackett said. "However, it is going to be a sane one, and as unsensational as we can make it."

If a Department of Justice agent is supplied to do the "leg work" for the subcommittee, he will be authorized to see whatever officials and records it is necessary for him to see in his investigation. If some official should refuse to talk to him that official soon would receive a subpena to appear before the subcommittee.

All five members of the subcommittee were at yesterday's meeting. They gathered around the big green-topped table in the office of the District committee. Sackett sat at the head, with Senator Jones (Republican), of Washington, on one side, and Senator Vandenberg (Republican), of Michigan, on the other. Next to Jones sat Blease, and next to him Senator Copeland (Democrat), of New York.

Senator's Murder Charged.

Prior to the meeting Senator Blease revealed that he had received a letter from a woman who expressed the belief that the late Senator Brandegee, of Connecticut, was murdered.

At the time of Brandegee's death by asphyxiation five years ago a note written in his hand was found telling the servants where they would find his body and cautioning them against the gas in the room. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide.

Blease would not comment on the woman's letter, explaining that he was simply turning it over to the subcommittee as a part of the record.

the Senate met yesterday that the proposal could not be defeated.

After Smoot said he was going to propose night sessions, Johnson served notice he would not vote for night meetings in view of "such spectacles as this." Previously both Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, and Senator Borah had said they disapproved night sessions on the bill.

Walsh Objects to Haste.

Senator Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts, protested against the attempt to hasten passage of the bill.

"What industry is suffering," he asked, "that hasn't suffered in the last seven years and had the opportunity to appeal to the Tariff Commission for relief under the flexible clause?"

"Let's proceed in due haste," he added, "but let's at least have full and complete debate."

Harvard Man Heads Research Council.

New York, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Prof. Edwin B. Wilson, of Harvard, has been elected president of the Social Science Research Council, it was announced today. He has been granted a leave of absence from the duties of his professorship of vital statistics for one year by the university for this service.

ALLEN TO BE ASKED TO EXPLAIN THREAT

Boast to "Investigate" U. S. Attorney's Office Is Looked Into.

DOYLE FLIES TO DEFENSE

The boast of Policeman Robert J. Allen, of the Eighth Precinct, that he intends to "investigate" the United States district attorney's office yesterday was added to the long list of incidents of "unbecoming conduct," which Allen will have to explain as soon as officials are free to order him to trial without seeming interference with the legal machinery dealing with the McPherson case.

Allen reportedly has been quoted in newspapers, however, only to deny that he was quoted correctly when he was questioned about the matter by his superior officers. Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty said yesterday that he would be surprised if Allen did not again use this defense.

Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, ordered Capt. R. E. Doyle, commander of the Eighth Precinct, to investigate the truth of the published quotation attributed to Allen.

"Such conduct," Pratt's order to Capt. Doyle read, "is very unbecoming a member of the department, whose full duty is performed in presenting such facts as he may be able to obtain as evidence of the commission of crime to the office of the district attorney, and he has no concern as to the action taken by that office."

Capt. Robert E. Doyle of the Eighth Precinct, who permitted Allen to make the investigations which led to the arrest of William Lee Moffatt and to participate in the arrest itself, last night issued a statement defending his action.

Declaring that it was results he was after always and that Allen had not gone out of his way to conduct the investigation, Capt. Doyle contended that there was nothing irregular in his allowing the private policeman to don civilian clothes and play the role of a detective. He explained that he had gone with Allen to the Third Precinct and obtained a detective, W. S. Burke, to aid in making the arrest, as Moffatt was in the Third Precinct.

Capt. Doyle's statement follows:

"In the conduct of the Moffatt case I wish to state the manner in which both Private Robert J. Allen and myself handled this matter, there is nothing irregular whatever. In my judgment there was no regulation violated, neither was there any custom of the force transgressed. I wish to further state Private Allen has acted in this matter with my full approval and hearty cooperation.

"This is not an attitude upon my part that is limited to any particular case, but rather is an attitude that is indicative of the manner in which I have always performed my duties as police captain, which position I have been honored with for almost 24 years of my nearly 40 years as a member of the Metropolitan Police Department of the District of Columbia."

"This," said Allen last night, "is the first time that any police official has ever approved of me. With the support of Capt. Doyle, which is a godsend to me, I hope to look into quite a number of things from now on. There are several unsolved crime mysteries that have interested me, and I am sure that with Capt. Doyle's aid, we can now do things with constructive results."

Allen's threat to "investigate" the district attorney's office was made after he had arrested William Lee Moffatt on a charge of larceny after trust. The arrest was made on a warrant sworn to by Harrison Orndorff, who resides on Fairmont street northwest between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets, after Orndorff is said to have complained to Allen that Moffatt had misused money intrusted to him.

Allen Repeats Statement.

Following Moffatt's arrest Allen is said to have told newspaper reporters that he intended to investigate the district attorney's office to find out why Moffatt had not been prosecuted on other charges. Again yesterday Allen, discussing the matter with reporters, was quoted in other newspapers as saying, "I intend to investigate immediately why this man, W. L. Moffatt, was allowed to be at liberty while two indictments are pending against him."

Even if Allen admits making the statements attributed to him in the newspaper, no disciplinary action will be taken at this time for the same reasons that caused officials to postpone his trial on other charges and restore him to duty pending the outcome of the McPherson case.

Moffatt was arraigned in Police Court yesterday on a charge of larceny after trust and was ordered held for a hearing under $15,000 bond. He pleaded not guilty and asked for a continuance until Saturday, stating that his attorney, William E. Leahy, is engaged in the trial of Albert B. Fall in District of Columbia Supreme Court.

Continuance Is Granted.

Judge John P. McMahon granted the continuance despite the objection of Assistant United States Attorney John Fitzpatrick. The Government attorney declared that his office had information that leads it to believe that the charge against Moffatt is an attempt to use a criminal process to collect a private debt. He insisted that the hearing be held at once and that witnesses against Moffatt be given an immediate opportunity to make out a prima facia case. Judge McMahon overruled his objection.

CHAMBER TO HOLD QUARTERLY SESSION

Arlington Commerce Body Is Arranging Elaborate Program for Fete.

G. O. P. RALLY TONIGHT

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Arrangements for the quarterly meeting of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce which will be held at the Washington-Lee High School Saturday night, October 26, are being rapidly completed, according to an announcement made yesterday by Keith A. Brumback, president.

The program, as now arranged, provides for the meeting to open with a dinner to be served by the girls of the domestic science class of the school at 6 o'clock. Owing to the limited room, President Brumback requests that those planning to attend the dinner make reservations without delay. Tickets may be obtained from the office of Executive Secretary P. P. Woodbridge.

Following the dinner there will be a public meeting in the school auditorium.

Among the speakers will be Gov. Harry Floyd Byrd, who will deliver an address on "The Progress and Future of Virginia;" Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant, executive officer of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, and Col. H. G. Shirley, chairman of the Virginia State Highway Commission. Among invited guests will be members of the National Park and Planning Commission and the Virginia Park and Planning Commission.

Plans for an extensive drive to raise $5,000 to liquidate the mortgage on the Cherrydale Firemen's Hall were inaugurated at a special meeting of a committee of the department headed by Fred A. Gosnell held in the firehouse last night.

Fifteen team captains will be aided by special committees in covering the eighteen districts covered by the department. It is planned to have all captains appointed by tomorrow night in order that the drive may get under way next Monday.

The department celebrates its twenty-fifth birthday anniversary next year and it is the hope of the committee that this fund can be raised so that the mortgage may be burned at a huge celebration this winter.

The monthly meeting of the department will be held in the Firemen's Hall tonight at 8 o'clock.

A political mass meeting is announced for tonight. The meeting is to be held in the Jefferson District Firemen's Hall, under the auspices of the Republican county committee.

Among the speakers will be Kirk Matthews, former Democratic judge at Richmond, Va., and Louis A. MacMahon, the Republican nominee from Arlington County for the Virginia House of Delegates.

County Chairman J. E. Spaulding predicted that Arlington County will give a majority of 1,000 to Dr. William Moseley Brown, the coalition candidate for Governor of Virginia, which brought forth the following statement from State Republican leaders who visited Arlington County yesterday: "As Arlington County goes, so goes the Eighth Congressional District."

The county Republican committee announces that Republican headquarters have been opened at 44 Wilson boulevard, in Clarendon, where information pertaining to the election and the proper method of marking the ballot may be obtained.

Work of putting the finished surface on the Wilson boulevard from Clarendon avenue to Virginia avenue is progressing rapidly, and plans for the celebration to be held the night of October 25 in connection with the opening of the boulevard through the business section are going forward.

According to an announcement last night made by Joseph C. Boss, chairman of the entertainment committee, the "Miss Arlingtons" of the past four years will be the honor guests of the Clarendon Retail Merchants Association, sponsors of the affair, in cooperation with the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce. Reading the list is Miss Virginia McDonnell, "Miss Arlington" of 1929; Miss Ethel Virginia Donaldson, 1928; Miss Marie Duehring, 1927, and Miss Margaret Rees, 1926.

Among others on the program will be the cadet corps of the Washington-Lee High School, the drum and bugle corps of Arlington Post, No. 139, American Legion, and many other special attractions which are now being arranged for.

H. B. Mitchell is the general chairman on arrangements.

Prominent business, professional and civic leaders of Arlington and Fairfax Counties and the City of Alexandria will attend a dinner to be given tonight at the Washington Golf and Country Club by the Northern Virginia Bureau, at 6:30 o'clock. The object of the dinner is to bring together the leaders with the view of mapping out an advertising program for northern Virginia for the coming year.

The dance committee of the Arlington Volunteer Fire Department announced there will be a special meeting tomorrow night in the Old Columbia Pike Schoolhouse to complete plans for the Halloween dance to be held by the firemen and ladies' auxiliary in the Old Columbia Pike Schoolhouse Thursday night, October 31.

The bowling team of the Arlington Fire Department will hold its weekly game in the Arlington-Fairfax Firemen's League tomorrow night at Rosslyn.

Chief A. C. Scheffel of the Arlington Fire Department plans organization of a local fire department unit in the proposed Arlington-Fairfax firemen's first-aid class. Chief Scheffel is chairman of the first-aid committee which is cooperating with the Arlington County Chapter, American Red Cross.

There will be a special meeting of the executive committee of the Arlington County Chapter, American Red Cross, tonight at the courthouse. The meeting has been called for the purpose of formulating plans for the annual roll call which starts November 11.

Excavation at the intersection of the Wilson boulevard and the Courthouse road leading through Lyon Village starts today, and motorists wishing to reach the courthouse or Rosslyn by way of the boulevard should go through the Village over Cherrydale avenue. The Courthouse road at Wilson boulevard will be closed to traffic. The most direct route to Rosslyn is over the Lee highway.

The executive committee of the Lyon Village Citizens Association met last night at the home of the president, Robert N. Anderson, and after considerable discussion into the question of the water, gas and electric light rates it was recommended that the matter be referred to the public utilities committee of the association for further study.

The association is on record as opposed to the granting of the permit to the Sun Oil Co. for the erection of storage tanks for gasoline and oil on the Lee highway and extending to the Potomac River, and the committee will recommend to the association that the matter be referred to the delegates to the Arlington District Council for further study to ascertain whether any further action can be taken.

CIRCUIT COURT HAS CRIMINAL SESSION

Prince Georges County Holds Term With Three Cases on First Day.

MURDER TRIAL IS TODAY

Trial of criminal cases began yesterday in the Prince Georges County Circuit Court sitting in the October term at Upper Marlboro. Judges Joseph C. Mattingly and William Melville Loker presided. Three cases were tried yesterday, resulting in two convictions and one acquittal.

Joseph Ford, colored, charged with assault with intent to kill, pleaded guilty. He is alleged to have assaulted Francis Fobbs, colored, June 23, when the latter objected to his repossessing a tire he had loaned Fobbs. Senator Lansdale G. Sasscer, attorney for Ford, intimated that he intended asking a new trial on the ground that his client pleaded guilty unaware of the result of such action.

Thomas Lyles, colored, was found guilty of assault and battery and two statutory charges were dismissed. He is alleged to have assaulted Gertrude Henry, colored, Fairmount Heights, Md., at a party September 24.

Richard Scrivener, colored, was acquitted of charges of housebreaking and larceny. He was charged with having entered the store of Mace Henson, colored, on the Crain highway near Upper Marlboro, September 14, and stealing clothing and foodstuffs. Scrivener was represented by Attorney Clarence Roberts.

The court docket for today includes the trial of Jeremiah Hawkins, colored, for murder. Hawkins is charged with the fatal shooting of Frank Green, colored, and the wounding of Theodore Green, colored, near Brandywine, July 19.

According to police, Hawkins went to the Green home to collect $7 which he claimed Roger Green had taken from his pocket while they were on a party together. He is alleged first to have wounded Theodore and when the elderly Green came out to see what was wrong, to have shot and mortally wounded him.

SCIENTIFIC ATTITUDE IN RELIGION IS URGED

FALSE CONCEPTION HIT

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 17.—"The major attitude that should characterize all in religious educational work, the general spirit which underlies the program, must be what may be termed the scientific attitude, and unless you understand and appreciate that spirit and come to possess it, you will not progress far in that work," Dr. Frank M. McKibben, professor of religious education at the University of Pittsburgh, told the Maryland-Delaware Council of Religious Education, which began a two-day convention in Calvary Methodist Church, here today.

Dr. McKibben delivered the principal speech of the day, his general theme being "Present Problems of Religious Education." The speaker declared there is a general false conception that science is in conflict with religion, but that the world is now coming to see that there is no essential difference. "Science is a tireless, never-ending search for truth, and the same attitude must characterize religious work," the speaker asserted.

"Our problem is that of deciding how to apply the scientific attitude; it is embodied in the spirit of inquiry that makes us want to know the factors in the case, and it is the spirit that refuses to be bound down by traditional ways," Dr. McKibben said. "Analyze every problem, discuss all the factors, and then outline your solution step by step. The scientific attitude is merely illuminated common sense," he aded.

Dr. McKibben said he had observed with pleasure that the teachers in the public schools of today are marked by a passion to understand the child mind and the way in which God has planned the way that the personality of the child shoud unfold. He declared that this same spirit is needed by the Sunday school teachers, "who all too often thrust upon young children classes that they can not possibly understand."

Another speaker of the day was Dr. H. Augustine Smith, author and America's leading authority on fine arts in religion. He spoke on the general theme of "Leadership," which, after all, he said, is the priestly leadership that needs a prayerful spirit, a leadership that while capable of leading, is still modest and humble, a spirit that will glorify Him whom is worshiped.

Sessions of the convention were held morning, afternoon and evening. An inspection of the Naval Academy was a recreational feature of the afternoon.

POISONING MYSTERY IN MARYLAND DEATH

LIVED APART FROM WIFE

Cumberland, Md., Oct. 17.—County Coroner Joseph B. Finan and State's Attorney William A. Huster are investigating the death of Oscar O. Burton, whose funeral took place this afternoon near North Branch. About three hours before Burton was found dead in the cabin in which he lived alone he called at the headquarters of the Rice Orchards, where he worked, and asked Mrs. Rice to give him salt and water to make him vomit. He told Mrs. Rice and two other persons that he believed he had been poisoned and was going to die.

Dr. Thomas W. Koon and Dr. William L. Burns conducted an autopsy yesterday afternoon, but were not able to assign a cause for the man's sudden death from such examination of the organs as they could make. They advised that the stomach be sent to Baltimore for analysis. This was ordered done, and it may be several days before a report is received. The county coroner summoned a jury and viewed the body this morning and will convene the jury for an inquest when a report from the Baltimore chemist is received.

Burton lived in a small building about 100 yards distant from where his wife resided with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Twigg, on a mountain farm near Spring Gap. Mrs. Burton explained that they lived in separate buildings according to an agreement made before they were married. She stated that her parents did not want her to leave home, nor did they want another person in the house. Their marriage took place about ten years ago, and in all these years Mr. Burton lived in a cabin nearby, while his wife says she visited him and prepared his meals. They have two daughters, aged 9 and 7 years. Burton was about 40 years old.

Then it came to Japan, India, Africa and South America. He stated the present system was devised in 1901 by Sir R. E. Henry, of London. He said the Navy Department and Department of Justice were always ready to help all police officials with their records.

The fourth annual banquet of the Virginia Police Executives Association was held last night in the George Mason Hotel, and was attended by the mayor and members of the Alexandria city council, and police executives and officials from about the State. Harry B. Caton, Alexandria attorney and former police justice, was toastmaster.

An address scheduled to be delivered by R. B. Jordan, chief of police of Richmond, was omitted on account of his illness.

Lawrence B. Duncan, director of the bureau of social hygiene of New York, delivered a talk on the subject of the policeman as a professional man.

Cornelius F. Cahalan, police consultant of the Holland Tunnel Commission, New York, was the next speaker, his subject being the New York region police schools. An efficient policeman in Alexandria, he said, would be an efficient policeman in New York, Chicago, or Washington, after he became familiar with the local contacts, and a policeman trained in a large and then transferred to a small town would be no more nor less efficient, all depending upon his training. The policeman, he said, is a barometer indicating how a city or town is governed, and a person has only to observe the attitude of the crossing policeman to form an accurate idea of whether or not a city is properly and well governed.

He described in detail the organization and work of the State zone police schools, with 109 cities as the organization, divided into zones each containing six cities, and each having its own school in which lectures on police work are given. More than 3,600 members of the police forces of these cities attended the schools, he said.

An entertainment program was presented, consisting of a vocal selection by Miss Christine West, accompanied on the piano by Miss Margaret Armstrong; solos by Fred Pettit, accompanied by Mrs. Pettit, and a monologue by Jimmy Mullins, of Washington.

The City Council briefly considered a resolution to appropriate $1,000 for expenses of a survey of the city gas plant with a view to determining its valuation, but held it over until City Manager Wallace Lawrence could obtain more definite information as to the cost of the proposed survey. The resolution was introduced by Councilman Fannon.

The installation of street lights was authorized at the intersection of Jefferson and Columbus streets, in the 3300 block Duke street, and in front of the Parker-Gray School building.

An appropriation of $900 to assist in defraying the expense of the conventions of the League of Virginia Municipalities, which has just closed its sessions here, and the fourth annual conference of the Virginia Police Executives Association, now in session, was made.

The council appropriated $50 and transferred $100 from another fund, to defray expenses of Fire Chief James M Duncan, jr., while attending the International Firemen's Conference at Birmingham, Ala.

A letter was received from Col. E. M. Markham, former commanding officer at Fort Humphreys, thanking council for its recent letter expressing regret at the transfer of Col. Markham to another command. The colonel spoke of the pleasant relations which had existed between city officials and the troops of Fort Humphreys during his stay there.

Permits were granted to J. H. Chilcott for the erection of a porch at 320 South Alfred street, and to D. E. Bayliss for the erection of seven brick garages for John A. Lannon in the square bounded by Royal, Cameron, Pitt and Queen streets.

The Scottish Rite fall reunion will close with the banquet to be served tonight at Armory Hall, when over 750 Masons are expected to be present. The committee in charge is composed of J. Edward Shinn, chairman of luncheon and banquet; John H. Trimyer, J. E. Shinn, J. W. Krecthmer, Charles H. Callahan, Charles E. Dare, Percy Franford and H. D. Carter, entertainment.

Among speakers are John H. Cowles, sovereign grand commander, Southern jurisdiction; Louis A. Watres, president George Washington Masonic National Memorial Association; Representative Cliff Woodrum, of Roanoke, Va.; Charles H. Callahan, past grand master of Masons in Virginia. The toastmaster will be Robert S. Crump, 33d degree, sovereign grand inspector of Virginia; the address of welcome will be by Charles C. Wenrich, 32d degree, venerable master of the Lodge of Perfection, and invocation will be by the Rev. Edgar Carpenter, rector of Grace Episcopal Church, and the benediction by the Rev. F. T. McFadden, of Winchester, Va.

The program today is as follows: 2 p. m., group picture; 2:30 p. m., thirty-first degree; 4 p. m., receiving supreme council members; 6:30 p. m., banquet and speaking.

Mrs. Viola Morris, wife of Sanford P. Morris, 69 years old, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. A. Clark, 1701 King street. Besides her husband and daughter she is survived by a son, Eldridge S. Morris, of Del Ray. The funeral will be held at 1 o'clock today at Locust Grove, Va.

Al Valentine, negro, was arrested yesterday morning and arraigned in police court charged with operating a gambling game in clearance house numbers, and fined $100 and costs, after pleading guilty. Valentine was also sentenced to three months in jail, which sentence was suspended provided he refrains from repeating the offense.

The Cameron Club will hold a reception at 3 o'clock this afternoon in Christ Church parish hall in honor of Mrs. Henry S. Eley, of Suffolk, who is State president of the Federated Womens Clubs of Virginia, and has been in the city this week presiding over the convention of the Virginia branch of the International Order of Kings Daughters and Sons, of which she is president.

NEW SIREN BOUGHT BY FAIRFAX FIREMEN

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
Clarendon 919-J-1.

At a recent meeting of the Fairfax Volunteer Department it was voted to purchase a new fire siren similar to the one used in Manassas. The price will be $350. The manufacturers promised to deliver the siren within the next week. Pending its arrival, Allan Williams, chief of the department, has installed a whistle on the Service Garage to be used for the sounding of fire alarms.

A special committee, consisting of Franklin P. Sagendorf, Allan Williams, J. F. Nickell, John Sisen and Thomas P. Chapman, who examined the siren, reported that it was constructed so as to throw the sound into the air. It can be heard at a greater distance than the one which was destroyed in the fire.

Efforts are being made to secure a site on which to erect a permanent building to house the apparatus. Thomas P. Chapman and John Whalen were appointed a committee to find out whether or not the department can buy the lot on Main street owned by R. Walton Moore, Thomas Keith and F. S. McCandlish.

The new motor and clutch have been installed in the fire engine and the apparatus is now in service.

There is a movement on foot among the various volunteer fire departments of the county to make a general survey of the county for water supplies that can be used for fire fighting. This may be done by the damming of the numerous small streams so they will form natural reservoirs.

John W. Rust and E. H. Allan attended a meeting of the Stonewall Jackson Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy recently. Rust addressed the meeting on "The Bull Run Battlefield Park," and Allan, who is president of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce, gave a talk on things of general interest in Fairfax County. According to Rust, a plan has been evolved whereby money may be raised to finance the making of the battlefield a Confederate park. Every Confederate and every son and daughter of these veterans will be asked to contribute a dollar or more toward the fund. The $15,000 needed to secure the $10,000 which was appropriated by the State has already been raised. This money will be used to complete the purchase of the battlefield.

It is planned to have the positions of the Confederate organizations who took part in the two battles marked. Federal organizations will also be invited to erect suitable markers to show the position of the Union forces.

The restoration of the roof of the old Fairfax County Courthouse Building is now well under way. When the slate was taken off the roof yesterday it was found in a very bad condition. The slate roof was laid over what it is reported to be the original shingle and lath work. It was found that the timbers which supported the roof were held together by one nail and many wooden pegs at each joint. Specimens of the old craftsmanship are on exhibit in the office of the County Chamber of Commerce. They are believed to be more than 130 years old. It is understod that the old timbers will be replaced where it is necessary and the interior of the courtroom will not be materially changed. Tar paper and canvas will be used as protection against the weather over the parts that will be exposed while new slate is being put on.

The Fairfax County Hunt Club will hold a meeting in the Herndon High School tonight at 8 o'clock. All land owners in the surrounding country have been invited to attend. The purpose will be to elect a board of governors and to fix the date on which the first hunt will be held. Ronald Dawson, who is in charge of erecting the jumps and barriers over the new course, reports them practically completed. A. Smith Bowman, president of the club, will be in charge of the meeting.

The Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce board of directors will meet tonight in the offices of chamber in the old clerks' office at Fairfax Courthouse. Several special topics will be discussed.

The county health unit has completed the school clinic at the Legate School and is now working on the pupils' teeth and examination of throats in the schools at Popes Head, Oak Grove, Potters Hill, Lorton and Centerville. While the dentist, Dr. Moss, is working on the teeth of the pupils, Dr. Feagans and Mrs. Seamans, the county nurse, examine their throats. If it is found that conditions need attention the parents of the children are advised to take them to the Alexandria Hospital and have the necessary surgical work done. The health office wishes to call to the attention of the people of this county that Dr. Feagans will be in his office every morning to make tests and vaccinate all children not reached in the school survey.

At a meeting of the Fairfax Parent-Teachers Association recently the Rev. William C. Marshall handed in his resignation as president, as he has accepted a call to Bedford as pastor there. Mrs. J. A. Hallman, Mrs. N. Patton Young, Mrs. H. M. Clarke were appointed a committee to select candidates for nomination to succeed the Rev. Mr. Marshall. A committee consisting of Charles Pickett, C. C. Carr and Fred D. Richardson were appointed to consider plans for the improvement of the grounds in the rear of the schoolhouse. County Superintendent W. T. Woodson brought to their attention that these grounds would be specially adapted to the construction of a large open-air theater.

The Rev. Mr. Marshall spoke of the program that had been outlined for the year's work of the association. There was a discussion of the question of having an hour's study of religious instruction in the school, but no action was taken.

Prof. B. W. Loomis, in charge of the extension courses of the Fredericksburg Teachers College, will hold the second class in the Fairfax School this afternoon and evening. These classes give the local teachers the opportunity to renew their certificates. The first class will be held at 4 o'clock and will last until 6 o'clock. There will be an intermission for dinner, followed by the second class. The courses will be the psychology of individual differences and the survey of English literature. College credits will be given to those finishing the course. They are also open to all citizens of the county whether they are members of any school faculty or not. A number of persons who are not teachers have signified their intention to take advantage of this opportunity.

Special to The Washington Post.

Strasburg, Va., Oct. 17.—Dr. Cloyd Goodnight, president of Bethany College, was the principal speaker at the Wednesday evening session of the Disciples of Christ convention which is being held here. C.; student pastors, made short talks. The morning session was given over to the consideration of Virginia's need for the Pentecost message. Dr. F. E. Smith, Indianapolis, discussed the problem of caring for aged ministers of the Christian Church. The Revs. J. O. Helsabeck, Richmond; J. T. Watson, Lynchburg; F. W. Long, Clifton Forge; J. W. Hastings, Lynchburg; Jewell Matthews, Richmond; Arthur Wake, Strasburg and J. D. Kitchin, jr., Newport News, led the discussion with brief addresses.

MONTGOMERY CHIEF CALLS SCHOOL AIDS

Teachers Will Work Out New Program for Intensive Work.

FOX HUNT SET FOR NOV. 4

Preparatory to adoption of a modern system of unit instruction in accordance with plans provided for Columbia University research work, teachers of the Montgomery County school system are meeting at the Rockville High School in groups to work out plans for the new course.

The meetings are being held under supervision of Superintendent Edwin W. Broome. The groups are working on arrangement of various units of instruction so as to provide a well-balanced curriculum. While the new program is in formative stage, eventually the course will be made the standard for the county school system.

A section of high school teachers met yesterday and another section will meet today. Graded school teacher groups have met throughout the week. The unit which is being worked on now is the social study group, which includes history and geography in the graded schools, and history in the high schools. When the course is completed the schools of Montgomery County will function with a modern, regulated course of study instead of the old style method of unregulated courses. A definite schedule of classes will be provided which are expected to result in a well defined academic balance.

Clarence L. Gilpin, president of the Montgomery County Agricultural Society, will act as master of hounds at the annual field trials of the Maryland Fox Hunters Association, which will be held November 4 in Montgomery County. Rockville is to be the headquarters of the hunt, which is expected to attract a large group of sportsmen and some of the finest hounds.

Horses and hounds will be quartered at the Rockville Fair Grounds, and the hotels and private homes of Rockville probably will be well filled with members and visitors. A bench show will be held. The supply of red foxes in the county is said to be bounteous, thus assuring exceptional sport.

Postmaster W. B. Burdette, of Rockville, plans to bring to the attention of the Rockville Chamber of Commerce a request by Harry F. Guggenheim, president of the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics, that a marker showing the name of Rockville and an arrow pointing north be painted on top of some building in the town for the direction of airmen. Postmaster Burdette has been in communication with Guggenheim for some time and has at last decided that the matter should be taken up by the chamber.

EPISCOPALIANS PLAN CLERGY PLACEMENT

Method Which Is Claimed to Revitalize Ministry Is Before Synod.

COLLEGE WORK IS URGED

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 17 (A.P.).—A plan for placement of the clergy, described by one of its authors as a plan to revitalize the ministry, was presented to the Eleventh Synod of the Province of Washington of the Episcopal Church here today.

The system provides for the nomination, by a committee, of three clergymen for election by a parish as rector. If none of the three be satisfactory, the placement committee would continue to nominate until the parish selected a pastor.

The plan also provides an opportunity to the minister to petition for a transfer if he feels he can perform a greater service in another community.

The Rev. Arthur L. Kinsolving, of Amherst, Mass., said that colleges are the new missionary field of the church. He urged that clergymen who have proved to be successful as leaders be assigned to college towns.

Miss L. J. Soper, of Washington, was elected president of the Daughters of the King of the province.

Other officers elected were Mrs. W. A. Garden, of Pittsburgh, vice president; Mrs. C. McLean Bingley, of Baltimore, secretary, and Miss Clara V. Stackhouse, of Philadelphia, treasurer.

SCOPE OF THE CONFERENCE.

The text of the French reply to the British invitation to the London naval disarmament conference has now been made public, and it sets forth the chief obstacle which must be overcome before the proposed five-power conference can even be launched. The question whether the conference will be empowered to bring about binding agreements or whether it is to serve merely as an advisory body to the preparatory commission of the League of Nations has developed a deadlock among the governments concerned. Unless this question can be settled to the satisfaction of two diametrically opposed sides it will be an idle gesture, if not a grave blunder, to hold the proposed conference.

France accepts the invitation to the London conference with the expressed understanding that she is merely to participate in preparatory discussions to facilitate the work of the preparatory commission of the league. Taking advantage of the ambiguous phraseology of the British invitation, the French reply states:

> The British government, after having discussed the situation with the Government of the United States, now proposes to extend these conversations to those powers which appear to be principally interested in the solution of the naval problem, and this initiative has expressly for its object, as it is stated in the communication of the foreign secretary, the facilitation of the task of the preparatory commission and that of the future general conference for the limitation and reduction of armaments.

In line with the Italian reply, France states that the principles which have always guided her policy on disarmament are too well known to need repetition. The French government has consistently refused to sanction any binding agreements by an agency independent of the League of Nations since the Washington conference of 1921-22, which proved embarrassing to France.

In view of the French and Italian notes the task of the British and American governments is to bring about a complete change of front on the part of France and Italy in order to induce them to abandon a stand which they have now reiterated in their notes.

There must be a complete change of front if there is to be a five-power conference capable of making treaties or agreements subject to ratification. Obviously, the London conference will lose much of its significance if it is powerless to do more than recommend a text for the preparatory commission of the League of Nations to wrestle with. The league's record of achievement in the disarmament field has been nil up to the present, and tangible results are not to be expected during the next decade. The league's promised general disarmament conference remains in the realm of international idealism.

It is difficult to believe that the British government, without good reason, made its invitation subject to the interpretation which France and Italy have applied to it. Perhaps it was necessary in order to forestall flat French and Italian rejections at the outset. Assuming that Great Britain, like the United States, desires a bona fide five-power London conference capable of making immediate and binding agreements, instead of drawing up a text for the preparatory commission of the league, the joint Anglo-American task will now call for efforts to induce the French and Italian governments to back down and reverse the positions they have taken respecting the scope of the London conference.

About three months remain in which to overcome this tremendous obstacle. As Ambassador Dawes recently said, "The one unforgiveable sin would be to go into a conference without proper preparation."

UNCLE SAM IN PRICE WARS?

Cleveland milk distributors are engaged in a price-cutting war which promises to have far-reaching influence on the Government's plan of farm relief. Price-cutting is not unusual in America, but this case is receiving national attention because it brings up one of the first problems arising out of administration of the agricultural marketing act. It is conceivable that the conflict which has begun in Cleveland may spread, in one branch of agriculture or another, throughout the country.

The Dairymen's Cooperative Association operating in the vicinity of Cleveland decided a few months ago to go into the retail milk business. Eager to secure business, it lowered prices. A fight for the retail milk market was the result. The largest distributor cut retail prices to a minimum and raised prices paid to producers. The cooperative dairymen appealed to the Federal Farm Board for help and secured a loan of $400,000, along with an intimation that this sum might be increased. Presumably the milk war will be carried to the bitter end, with the cooperative backed by Federal funds. The independent producers will, of course, be crowded out of the field, and even the largest distributor, which is a subsidiary of the National Dairy Products Co., is threatened.

This is the first example of a spirited conflict resulting from administration of the farm relief plan. The outcome should prove very interesting. Such conflicts might have been expected from the nature of the act, but it is difficult to determine how any piece of legislation will work out until it is put in operation.

One purpose of the act, as stated in section 1, is to promote the effective merchandising of agricultural commodities by "encouraging the organization of producers into effective associations or corporations under their own control for greater unity of effort in marketing, and by promoting the establishment and financing of a farm marketing system of producer-owned and producer-controlled cooperative associations and other agencies." It was plainly the intent of Congress to eliminate the middlemen standing between the farmer and the consumer.

In many cases efficient distribution agencies for such products as milk and meat have been established. Are these concerns, some of which operate on a national scale with abundant financial backing, to be put out of business by federalized price-cutting wars? The opposition raised against the milk producers' plans in Cleveland indicates incalculable trouble ahead if the cooperatives launch any such program. With the backing of Government funds, secured at low interest rates, the cooperatives have a distinct advantage. But if price-cutting wars are prolonged, serious loss to both sides will result. There will be a loud outcry against the Government financing one agency to put another out of business. Cleveland has sounded the first note in what promises to become one of the most serious controversies arising out of the farm-relief act.

OFFENSIVE BILLBOARDS.

The case of the public against unsightly billboard advertising was ably presented at the annual convention of the Outdoor Advertising Association of America by former Senator G. W. Pepper and Secretary of Agriculture Hyde. Mr. Pepper pointed out that this advertising medium is increasingly dependent for its welfare on the good-will of the public, and warned the advertisers of the rising tide of public sentiment against misplaced billboards. He called attention to "one of our great trails" over which traffic is diminishing because "interest and beauty have been lessened by hot-dog stands, garish filling stations and a mess of outdoor advertising signs."

Secretary Hyde asked the association to use discretion in the use of billboards. "It will be found that reasonable means of industrial distribution can be satisfied without offense to the great majority of people," he said. "Ugliness and ineptitude are not good business. There is an immediate and instinctive resentment against blotching beautiful landscapes, against commercialism which crassly cries its wares in the haunts of natural beauty, and against the stupidity which intrudes itself in spots of historic importance."

A constructive suggestion by Mr. Pepper became the basis of a resolution passed by the association, calling on the Department of Commerce to make a survey and outline what procedure the companies should follow in suburban communities. This gives hope that the outdoor advertising business will take leadership of the movement. If the companies manifest a disposition to adhere to the wishes of the public, cooperation from the States will certainly be forthcoming, and criticism which might be adverse to the business can be avoided. The association has a chance to clear the highways of offensive billboards without running the risk of rigorous legislative action.

UNIONISM IN THE SOUTH.

A proposal that the American Federation of Labor take part in organizing labor in the South met with enthusiastic approval at the federation's annual convention. A committee to be appointed by President William Green will draw up a comprehensive plan of procedure, and the national organization will assist in financing the movement.

The motive behind this movement is not entirely one of comradeship between the workers of the two sections. Organized labor in the Northern industrial areas is somewhat alarmed at the migration of factories to the South, because it means fewer well-paid jobs. One of the principal objectives of mill operators in locating in the South has been cheap labor. Lower wages in one section tends to undermine the standards all over the country. Organization of the Southern trades should tend to equalize competition between the two sections and stabilize employment generally.

The decision of the American Federation of Labor is important also from another angle. Conditions in the South have given rise to communistic organizations. If left to themselves, many Southern labor unions would develop along communistic lines, and the country would be afflicted with a type of radical organization which has not yet gained a foothold in America. The American Federation of Labor is not communistic. It represents the more enlightened attitude of organized labor toward industry. No doubt the campaign of the federation in the South will mean the extermination of communism, which will be a blessing for both industry and labor.

Mill owners of the South are vigorously opposing the organization of unions under any circumstances. They do not seem to be willing to make compromises which will put employes on a better living standard. It appears, however, that communism, strikes and bloodshed will continue until conditions are improved and the right of collective bargaining recognized. Would it not be far less costly to welcome the efforts of the A. F. L. than to provoke further growth of communism and new industrial disruptions?

DR. MEIKLEJOHN'S LECTURE.

The scathing denunciation of wealthy America by Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, chairman of the experimental college at the University of Wisconsin, at the centennial celebration of Illinois College, was so unusual as to attract considerable attention in the press. "We are newly rich people and we are in serious danger," he said. "All agencies of enlightenment are failing because we are rich. Riches and education are in conflict with one another. Material wealth blinds men's eyes." He pleaded for an educators' war against the influence of material wealth on the Nation.

Presumably Dr. Meiklejohn would wipe out all the material achievements of the present century and go back to the little red schoolhouse and the home which served also as a factory. But no; he goes on to admit that he "would not destroy this new-found wealth." He would use it to destroy the confusion it has caused. He would apply it in such a way as to create a truly great nation. Alas! The man who perceives the evil of wealth always sees in himself the genius needed to expend it wisely.

The struggle between the ideal and the material is as old as society. Students devoted to the ideal always tend to belittle material advancement, but the great majority of mankind measure progress chiefly by the improvement of living comforts. And they nonchalantly reply to Dr. Meiklejohn: Why live in squalor while seeking intangible ideals?

Authorities find talkie screens are not fireproof, which seems incredible in view of the kind of material that is exhibited thereon.

A phonograph record replaces a bell in the newest alarm clock, but to apartment dwellers the effect will be no less unpleasant.

JAPAN'S SACRED MIRROR

From the New York World.

Three hundred thousand reverent Japanese subjects stood bareheaded in the rain softly clapping their hands when an ancient mirror enshrining the greatest of all the empire's deities—the superhuman founder of the empire itself—was borne by high Shinto priests to a new resting place recently at Uji-Yamada, there to remain until 1949. Imperial law prescribes the holy mirror's removal to a new shrine specially built for that purpose every twenty years.

The mirror itself, only a fragment of which is said to remain, is older than the Japanese dynasty, whose beginning dates back to 960 B. C. It is one of the three sacred treasures of Japan handed down from emperor to emperor literally as a badge of office. The other two treasures are the sacred sword and the sacred jewels, but of the three the mirror commands the deepest sentiments of awe among the Japanese, for they believe that the great sun goddess, Amaterasu-Omikami, not only gave the mirror to the first emperor, Jimmu Tenno, but is able to project her soul out of her body into the mirror even today at will.

The remarkable fact that the mirror and the other treasures have been preserved from a period of indefinite mythological beginnings right down to the present is due largely to the extraordinary sense of responsibility that has been felt toward the mysterious insignia of gods. They have ever been accorded the reverent treatment of gods themselves.

The mirror is not glass, as some might suppose, but is of a material which the early records call "white copper." Although few persons have been permitted to gaze upon this mirror, since it is kept inside of protective covering and buried in the deepest inner recesses of the shrine, its workmanship is believed to show an early Chinese influence.

The magical capacity of the mirror to produce light undoubtedly accounts for its association with Amaterasu-Omikami, the sun goddess who founded Japan, and in particular gives rise to the belief that the sun goddess still enters the sacred mirror when summoned there by proper rites.

The earliest emperors kept the sacred mirror securely guarded but in their immediate presence until in the reign of Emperor Shujin, 97 to 30 B. C., who, according to translations from the Kogoshui, "began to feel uneasy at dwelling on the same couch and under the same roof beside the mirror sacred to Amaterasu-Omikami and the herb-quelling divine sword and being greatly overwhelmed by their awe-inspiring, divine influence" he ordered them removed to a village in the district of Yamato to a new holy site specially prepared for them. Lest he offend the gods, however, the emperor took the precaution of having replicas of the originals made which he kept near his person, as did succeeding emperors. The Kogoshui, recounting how this was done, adds, "The new mirror and sword are the identical sacred emblems which the Imibi family offered to the emperor as the divine insignia at his enthronement ceremony, which protect the legitimate sovereign against hostile evil powers."

These same replicas were used at the enthronement of the present emperor last November, but the original sacred mirror was not disturbed in its shrine.

It Would Have Been More of a Surprise Had It Not Been Expected.

NEW SPEEDWAY.

The Grand Trunk Railway has contributed an idea that may go a long way toward solving the problem of automobile traffic congestion on highways between metropolitan centers and populous suburbs. The Grand Trunk proposes to parallel the 26 miles of its track between Detroit and Pontiac, Mich., with a high-speed toll road for automobiles, according to the San Francisco Chronicle. The toll road is not to be alongside the railway's tracks but above them, a second story on the company's right of way. The railway's plan for the electrification of its suburban lines lends itself to the radical new idea, the steel standards for the power cables to be part of the support of the toll roadway. The high-speed elevated road for through automobile traffic is not a new conception. New York City has already begun such a structure along its Hudson River front. But every city can not afford the investment. The railroads may find the idea practicable and profitable where the population and traffic conditions warrant.

The More Men Respect Justice, the More They Scorn Unjust Law

By ROBERT QUILLEN

SOME months ago a Negro laborer and a white lawyer were tried in a Southern court—one for stealing a watch and the other for stealing many thousands of dollars entrusted to him by an institution.

Both were found guilty. The Negro was guilty of a minor offense that injured one person; the lawyer was guilty of a great offense that injured many. Justice demanded punishment to fit the crimes.

But the Negro was sentenced to serve eighteen months more than the lawyer.

Consider another case. A poor man whose meager earnings were scarcely sufficient to support his family was charged with a crime he did not commit. He was lodged in jail.

At once his job and his reputation were gone. While he awaited trial his family sold its few belongings to buy food and at last was reduced to begging.

When the man was acquitted and turned loose, the State that had disgraced and broken him made no recompense. It had deprived him of his wages, but it made no return. It had taken his reputation, but it made no apology. It had ruined his life, but instead of making some effort to undo the wrong, it said to him: "Well, we didn't convict you—this time. Get out."

Consider another. Two men, living in different judicial districts, were found guilty of identical offenses against the State. The same Federal law applied to both; their degree of guilt was the same. Neither deserved more mercy than the other. Yet one was given a six months' sentence, which was suspended, while the other was sent to jail for three years.

Justice demanded equal punishment for offenders of equal guilt, but one judge was in sympathy with the law and the other was not. The fate of two citizens, tried under the same law, was determined by judicial prejudice.

Cases could be multiplied indefinitely. "The law is an ass," said Dickens. It is worse than that. It is a tyrant, a bully, a snob—a persecutor of the poor and an accomplice of the rich—a thing to fear and hate and despise.

While the President's commission is studying the prohibition law and trying to discover why it is so little respected, it should expose the rottenness in our whole system of jurisprudence and suggest a way to make all law respectable.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

An English Friend Advises America to Strengthen Its Navy.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As a friendly Englishman, and as the beginning of a new and better diplomacy, I wish to advise the United States of America to greatly strengthen, instead of weakening, its naval defenses.

For, possibly, sentimental reasons, I value the security of America second only to that of Great Britain; and I am of the opinion that the United States Navy should be strong enough (and especially in battleships) to overwhelmingly defeat any possible combination of hostile attacking fleets. Among other possibilities, the prospect of the City of New York, with its soaring skyscrapers and its stupendous skyline, becoming the target of heavy naval artillery is too frightful to contemplate.

I can not conceive of any reason why America should propose to reduce its own naval defenses. I most respectfully submit that there is no danger, or even possibility, of a competitive building of warships between the United States and Great Britain. A prominent British statesman, and a friend of the United States, has proclaimed that, under no circumstances whatever, would England consent to build in competition with America. The British Empire is, at this date, compelled (most unfortunately, as I think) to reduce its navy, by financial necessity, and because Britain has been impoverished by the late war

The British income tax now averages from 15 to 20 per cent. On invested capital, 20 per cent of the income is collected at the source. With such an income tax, competitive building of warships against the rich and prosperous United States of America is absolutely impossible.

FRIENDLY UNDERSTANDING.

Tariff Court Suggested, With Power to Fix Duties for Each Industry.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: This question of a national tariff that makes so many of us red hot strikes me as purely a question of equity for each industry involved.

When two men have an argument over a contract or an account and can not come to terms they generally invoke the courts. And since we have been brought up to consider our courts the last resort in settling an argument the verdict is accepted without much protest.

Why not apply the same principles to the tariff? Why not legislate a tariff court into life? Let such a court be composed of regular judges appointed for life with a good salary attached, so that none but the most capable of men would sit in judgment.

With such a court in session, then the warring factors of the tariff could present concrete evidence under oath, and each individual case for any industry could be tried in the same way that other cases on public questions are tried.

Surely such a court could not be accused of prejudice and each side would have to abide by any decision rendered. Such a court would take the tariff out of politics and it should also have the power to regulate the rates of the tariff. I again insist that regulation of tariff rates is one of equity alone.

To go into details would take up too much space, but foregoing may be an idea that appeals to you and then again it may not. But if you think about it long enough you may see the same merit I do for such a court. J. N. PARADIS.

Fewer Motor Fatalities Per Car in Dry America Than in Wet England.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I note that fatal motor accidents have increased 60 per cent in Ontario under government control of liquor, though car registration increased only 25 per cent.

Also, I note fatalities from motor accidents are fewer in the United States, under prohibition, than in England, under the open saloon. The following is from the Toronto Globe, September 21:

"Despite the fact that the number of motor cars in the United States is 34 times as great as that in Great Britain, a fatal accident occurred last year for every 118 cars in Great Britain, while in the United States the ratio was 1 death to 1,121. The number per square mile in Great Britain and the United States is approximately the same. It is not explained by density of population, for the fatality rate in congested city districts is less than for the United States as a whole. It certainly is not explained by poorer police control in Great Britain. It appears certain that the chief factor in the difference is the open public house (saloon) in Great Britain."

It looks as if nothing made highways dryways but prohibition, and the more you get it in force the dryer it will be.

Public Library at Clarendon Appeals for Books and Funds.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Having struggled for six years to keep its doors open twice a week to children and adults, the Arlington district public library at Clarendon makes its first direct appeal for donations of books and funds by any one interested in having its good work continued.

Miss Nancy Chase, librarian, practically serves gratuitously. She has library hours on Tuesdays and Fridays from 2 to 9 p. m., and conducts a children's story hour every Wednesday afternoon.

The library has been "read out," as it were. According to the librarian, when a new juvenile work was placed upon the shelves this week six children fought over it. There have been upwards of 30 children at one time in the library, from which over 250 books are withdrawn weekly.

Juvenile books and fiction are especially needed, although works in any department of literature would be gratefully received. The address of the library is No. 9, North Clarendon avenue, Clarendon, Va.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

City Unaware What Women Do in Science

Geographers' Society Is Composed of Noted Explorers.

By JEAN ELIOT.

WITH the return of Harriet Chalmers Adams (Mrs. Franklin Adams) from a long period of travel in Europe, Asia and Africa, the Society of Woman Geographers, of which she is president, may perforce come a little bit more into the limelight. So quietly does this group pursue the highly uneven tenor of its way that little is known of its activities, yet the countries represented in the society's membership range from Canada to Cambodia, from Bulgaria to British New Guinea, and the women affiliated with it have accomplished the most astounding things in the way of geographical exploration and research.

There is a saying that Washington is filled with eminent authorities on almost any subject known all over the world—except in Washington.

The case of the Society of Woman Geographers bears this out.

Capital Members Prominent.

Few could name offhand the Washington women who are members of this group, admission to which implies that they have contributed something to the world's store of knowledge concerning the countries in which they have traveled.

Yet, besides Mrs. Adams, the Capital has contributed to the society Mary Vaux Walcott (Mrs. Charles D. Walcott), glacial geologist, botanist, artist, author and specialist on North American wild flowers; Frances Carpenter Huntington (Mrs. William Chapin Huntington), writer and geographer, with an especial flare for elementary geography; Florence Merriam Bailey (Mrs. Vernon Bailey), ornithologist and specialist on birds of the United States; Caroline Benedict Carroll (Mrs. Mitchell Carroll), who is carrying on brilliantly the archeological work of her husband, the late Dr. Carroll; Miss Isabel Macdermott, geographer, author, editor and specialist on Latin America; Elsie Bell Grosvenor (Mrs. Gilbert Grosvenor), geographer and specialist on the comparative study of peoples, and Marian Bell Fairchild (Mrs. David Fairchild), geographer and specialist on hand-woven textiles.

Mrs. Fairchild now lives in Cocoanut Grove, Fla., but she is very definitely identified with Washington, being a sister of Mrs. Grosvenor and a daughter of the late Dr. Alexander Graham Bell. Although Mrs. John Borden, another of the group, is listed as "Chicago," as Miss Courtney Letts, she was a great favorite in the Capital before her marriage. She was a member of the Borden-Field Museum Alaska-Arctic Expedition and wrote of it entertainingly in "The Cruise of the North Light."

Then, too, Mrs. Ernest Thompson Seton, who is listed as explorer, author, lecturer and specialist on the sociology of women in Oriental countries, has been from time to time a resident of Washington and has many friends here.

Why Society Was Organized.

The Society of Women Geographers was organized in 1925 by a group who felt that there should be some medium of contact been women engaged in geographical work and allied sciences—ethnology, archeology, botany, natural history, sociology, folklore, arts and crafts, &c.

Active members are recruited from the United States and Canada, but there are corresponding members, with the same qualifications for admission, in over a score of countries.

There is a small associate membership made up of women widely traveled, who are interested in furthering all forms of geographical exploration and research. Mrs. Marshall Field, Mrs. Anne Archbold and Mrs. John Walker Holcombe are in this group.

Wide Scope Covered by Work.

To give but a suggestion of the type of work these women are accomplishing—Mrs. Mitchell Carroll, who lectured on Aegean, Greek, Etruscan and Roman archeology at George Washington University, has been following the Etruscans to their traditional place of origin in Lydia. Mrs. Huntington is heading for Paris to write a book for American school children on desert life. And through the summer just past, Mrs. Walcott has motored 10,000 miles through the West visiting Indian reservations. She is a member of the Board of Indian Commissioners.

Although Mrs. Adams has visited every country of the world, some of them many times, her chief interest lies in the lands that were once Spain's. On her just completed trip, she followed the trail of the Conquistadores in Spain to do special research work and then went off across Europe to Turkey, later crossing over into North Africa. Just now she is looking forward to a trip to South America by airplane, traveling over countries whose terrain she traversed afoot, on muleback, or by canoe over twenty years ago. On this expedition she reached frontiers previously unknown to any white woman.

For years Mrs. Adams has been closely identified with the National Geographic Society as lecturer and writer.

Art devotees await eagerly the exhibition of contemporary Belgian art sponsored by President Hoover and the King of the Belgians, which will be on private view on Thursday evening, October 24, at the Corcoran Gallery of Art, when the trustees of the gallery will be hosts. The private view is by invitation, and is held under the auspices of the European and American art committee.

The exhibition will then remain on public view until November 30.

Fete Planned In Democratic Women's Club

Mr. and Mrs. Shouse and Former Gov. Ross Guests.

The Women's National Democratic Club will receive on Thursday evening, November 7, in compliment to Mr. Jouett Shouse, chairman of the executive committee of the Democratic national committee, and Mrs. Shouse, and Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, former governor of Wyoming. The reception will welcome all Democrats in Washington and will follow a dinner planned by the club members for that evening.

The event in honor of the distinguished guests marks one of a program of varied scope arranged for the winter months, including discussions, forum, dinners and luncheons, the first of which will take place on November 4, when an after-luncheon program will include a talk on "What the Tariff Means to Women." On November 11 the topic, "What Happened at Geneva," and that of November 18, "The British Labor Party's Foreign Policy," present an index of the pertinent questions occupying the interest of club members. "Canadian and American Politics" will be discussed on November 25.

A round table discussion will be the feature of the dinner on Thursday evening, November 14. The subject will be "Should the Democratic Party Adopt a Consistent and Liberal Peace Policy?"

The dinner on November 21 will be followed by a short and clever skit presented by members of the club. A Thanksgiving dinner will be given November 28.

Mr. Erich H. Louw, first Minister from the Union of South Africa to the United States, will arrive in this country on October 22 preparatory to taking up his new duties. For many years the diplomatic affairs of Great Britain's dominions were in the hands of the British Ambassador, but for some time Canada and the Irish Free State have maintained envoys in Washington. Mrs. Louw will accompany her husband to the Capital.

Before starting for their home in Chicago, Mr. Charles Gates Dawes, United States Ambassador to Great Britain, and Mrs. Dawes, went from New York to Lawrenceville to visit their son, Dana Dawes, who is a student at Lawrenceville School.

Mr. and Mrs. Dawes took their son to lunch at the "Jigger Shop," the tavern made famous by Owen Johnson's stories of Lawrenceville life. After luncheon Dr. Mather A. Abbott escorted them through the new Dawes House, which is being erected in memory of the late Rufus Dawes, their son. The new building, to replace the old Dawes House, which was destroyed by fire last January, will be opened on November 1.

COUNCIL TO UNIFY TRANSPORT URGED

MELLON APPROVES IDEA

Pittsburgh, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—An American transportation council—a business men's organization to solve the problems of transportation by land, by water and by air—was proposed tonight at a banquet here commemorating completion of the canalization of the Ohio River from Pittsburgh to the Mississippi. Members of President Hoover's Cabinet and railroad industrial and business executives were present.

The suggestion was made by James Francis Burke, counsel for the Republican National Committee and a sponsor of the river observance. Burke said his thought was prompted by the increasing number of problems arising out of the multiplied methods of transportation, transoceanic traffic, inland waterways, steam railroads, electric lines, bus lines and air lines, all striving for their share of business.

Urges Private Initiative.

Burke proposed that Secretary of Commerce Herbert P. Lamont, who was present, invite transportation interests to meet and form the council, looking to cooperative effort to solve the many questions confronting the carriers and thus relieve the government of the burden.

The proposal was approved by several other speakers. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, said he believed "such a council would be a splendid thing and render a public service of great benefit."

Secretary of War Good termed the completed lock system in the Ohio an example of the "living spirit of service that animates a progressive people."

Agreeing that "Our waterways must be developed in anticipation of the time when traffic in this country will be so heavy that no railway system, however extensive and well managed, can entirely cope with our requirements," Secretary Mellon nevertheless warned that "it must be remembered that transportation by inland waterways has its limitations."

Ohio Expense Justified.

He asserted, however, that expenditure of the $100,000,000 necessary for canalization of the Ohio was justified and providing a step forward in achieving a "balanced and comprehensive transportation system that will prove equal to every requirement and will be a credit to the organizing genius of this country."

The Cabinet members at the dinner in addition to Secretary Good, Secretary Lamont and Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury; were Charles F. Adams, of the Navy, and James J. Davis, of the Labor Department. The railroad presidents present were Atterbury, Daniel Willard, of the Baltimore & Ohio; Patrick E. Crowley, of the New York Central; John J. Bernet, of the Chesapeake & Ohio; Charles E. Denny, of the Erie, and Frank Taplin, of the Taplin interests. Others present were Gov. John S. Fisher of Pennsylvania, and Maj. Gen. Brown, chief of the United States Engineers.

A 10-mile parade down the Ohio by some 30 steamboats will conclude the Pittsburgh River celebration tomorrow.

B. R. BUCK AND THREE AIDS ARE ARRESTED

Evans Building, 1420 New York avenue northwest. Freas wrote a letter dated July 6, 1929, to Z. Asbury Gill, Rehobeth Church, Va. Said Drain wrote letter of March 15, 1929, to E. C. Terrell, at Beaver Dam, Va., and said Williams wrote letter dated February 28, 1929, to E. C. Terrell, Beaver Dam, Va., together with other overt acts."

Sworn by Gallagher.

Assistant United States Attorney William A. Gallagher, who prosecuted Buck before Commissioner Turnage on the embezzlement charge, swore to the conspiracy warrant, and acted for the Government at the arraignment.

Buck appeared at the commissioner's office first, being accompanied by Attorney Harry Barger and Bondsman Kronheim. Attorney Barger sought to have the commissioner reduce the bond of $5,000 which had been set by the United States attorney's office, but his request was denied. Turnage holding that even though Buck already was under $10,000 bond, he believed the $5,000 bond on the new charge was not excessive.

Drain and Williams appeared next, accompanied by the deputy marshals and Attorney I. J. Costigan, who represents them. Attorney Costigan told the commissioner that he believed $5,000 bonds for his clients were exorbitant. He explained that both have resided in Washington for a number of years, have families, and that each had been an employe of Buck. The commissioner, after giving the matter consideration, ruled that, in view of the fact that both men have maintained a residence in the District for so many years, and have families, and occupied the status of employes, he would accept $3,000 bonds for each of them.

Opposes Low Bail for Buck.

Assistant United States Attorney Gallagher advised the commissioner that a reduction in the bonds of Drain and Williams was satisfactory to his office, but declared that his office was opposed to any reduction in the bond of Buck or Miss Freas. The United States attorney's office previously had asked the commissioner to fix bonds of $5,000 for each defendant.

Some delay was occasioned in obtaining a bondsman for Drain and Williams, but upon the arrival of Bondsman Buckley their release was quickly engineered.

Immediately afterward, Miss Freas appeared in company of Deputies Clarkson and Cerimele. It was stated that she had surrendered, having come from her home in a taxicab after having been advised that a warrant had been issued for her. Attorney Barger requested that her bond be fixed at $3,000 instead of $5,000, explaining that she, too, was an employe.

Paper Credits Only, Is Charge.

The assistant United States attorney explained that the alleged correspondence referred to in the warrant was in furtherance of an alleged conspiracy to have the persons to whom it was addressed send money to Buck & Co. to be invested in stocks. It also was indicated that the Government will seek to prove that the defendants had no intention of buying stocks for delivery, but intended to convert the money to their own use and to give only bookkeeping credits.

Deputies Clarkson and Cerimele, in seeking to apprehend Drain and Williams, went first to the Mills Building where the two former employes of Buck & Co. are said to be preparing to open up a brokerage establishment. Failing to find the place open, the marshals then went to the W street apartment house.

SUDDEN LOW WATER TRAPS RIVER CRAFT

Six Steamers Stranded as Ohio Drops Abruptly Near Paducah, Ky.

HOOVER SHIP INCLUDED

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 17 (A.P.).—A sudden drop in the lower reaches of the Ohio River left half a dozen or more steamers trapped by low water today, some of them aground and some tied up by officers who foresaw the danger in time.

Included in the craft forced into inactivity between Evansville, Ind., and Paducah, Ky., was the steamer Mississippi, inspection boat of the Mississippi River Commission, which had been designated as the headquarters ship for President Hoover when he travels from Cincinnati to Louisville next week as a part of the celebration of the canalization of the Ohio.

The Mississippi was tied up near Mount Vernon, Ind., on orders of her commander, Lieut. Walter E. Lorenz, U. S. Engineers. A multitude of reports were received at various places, including the United States Engineers' office here, to the effect that the Mississippi was aground at Diamond Island. It was established late today, however, that she had tied up a few miles below that point.

Will Float Soon.

Old Man River's joke on the Nation, which is about to celebrate its conquest over him, will be short-lived, however, engineers say. The sudden drop, amounting to ten feet in some places, was more than the lower dams could handle, and the engineers started work of sending water down to the craft as soon as they learned of their plight, early.

Water was let through dams as high up as Huntington, W. Va., and a little more was being added at each dam on the way down. It was stated at the engineer's headquarters here that the Mississippi and the other craft would be floated by tomorrow morning and that "they will come on up and go to Pittsburgh and then go down again."

The Mississippi had left Memphis Monday morning en route to Pittsburg. Between Memphis and Mount Vernon, Ind., 51 hours were lost by low water, Lieut. Lohene said.

Others Are Stranded.

The steamers Inspector and Willow, also designated to take part in the celebration, were reported stranded at Ford's Ferry, not far from the Mississippi, and two boats were reported aground at Diamond Island. The latter are the Donald Birmingham and Allen Richardson, tow boats. Several other craft were either aground or tied up near Paducah, Ky.

Government engineers explained that considerable dredging remains to be done in the Ohio and that this phase of the work had to be deferred until after completion of dams. The celebration next week is in honor of the latter accomplishment.

Woman Reweds Mate Divorced 30 Years Ago

Oswego, N. Y., Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Word was received here today that Mrs. William Fox, 68, of Scriba, near here, had been married Monday in Jerome, Idaho, to Edward Dedman, the husband she divorced more than 30 years ago.

Reconciliation came about when Dedman wrote a letter of condolence to his former wife upon the loss of her second husband who died about two years ago.

Beans baked outdoors!

Nothing for appetites like that tang of good food cooked out in the open. Just suppose for dinner tonight you could have beans baked out in the great North Woods.

Here is the recipe of the famous logging camp cooks who make the best beans in the world. Into the big, old iron bean pot goes layer upon layer of beans, sugar-cured pork, molasses and brown sugar. Sealed and buried through the night in a fragrant earthen oven 'mid fragrant wood embers—is it any wonder these beans are so good?

BEAN HOLE BEANS

Now this same wonderful flavor of the woods is reproduced for your own table. Van Camp's experts have brought you a new and different and better dish right from the "outdoors."

Try emptying the can in a buttered baking dish—put it in a moderate oven for 20 minutes. The best beans you can ever bake will bring no greater satisfaction. Two sizes, medium, 15c; large, 25c.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN

OCTOBER 18.

HELEN HUNT JACKSON, author of the novel, "Ramona," which recently was made into a screen hit, was born this day, 1831. "Ramona" appeared in 1884 and was one of the best sellers of the day. The protagonists of the romance are of Indian blood. The novel won its dramatic movement because of its admirable characterization, descriptions and imaginative insight. In her book, "A Century of Dishonor," she bitterly arranged the Government for its perfidy to the Indians, whose wrongs she had witnessed in the West. Other novels from her pen are "Mercy Philbrick's Choice" and "Hetty's Strange History," both of which are marked by color and brilliance of touch. She also was a poet of great lyrical power.

Helen R. Martin, popular contributor of stories of Dutch life to the magazines, was born this day, 1868. Two of her stories, "Tillie, a Mennonite Maid," and "Barnabetta," have been dramatized. The latter was renamed "Erstwhile Susan" and played by Mrs. Fiske. Her more recent works include "Ye That Judge," "Challenged," "The Snob" and "The Church on the Avenue."

What Today Means to You

"Libra."

IF October 18 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:50 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m., and from 10:30 p. m. to 11:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 8:50 a. m. and from 7:30 p. m. to 9 p. m.

Opportunities will be fleeting on this date and well hidden, but success in many ways is yours if you resolve slowly, act swiftly, and have a quiet eye for a quick hand.

The distinguishing trait, according to astrology, of the child born on this October 18 will be a temperamental disposition, which will be the cause of endless trouble to itself and others. It will be very quick tempered, but will be easy to pacify. It will have an intense love and an intense hatred.

You have many qualifications which are essential for achievement, and which are Failure's enemies. You have moral courage, driving power, initiative and mental energy. You have moral courage, driving power, initiative and mental energy. You have creative and executive ability above the average, and it would seem that there could be nothing which could hold you back or pull you down. Many of your best plans flunk, however, and your structures fall, because you can not get along with your subordinates or cooperators. Under stress of hard work you lose your head, and worse still, lose your temper. You seem never to learn that it is often best to swallow a good many unpleasant or annoying things for the sake of something bigger. You will never have a friend if you must have one without fault.

There is no one who is willing to work harder than you, and you in no way spare yourself when engaged in serious effort. You hate delegating work and you feel that "If you want a thing done well, do it yourself." Others resent your domineering, and sometimes, condescending ways. You must acquire a different attitude before you will ever get along with your coworkers.

Socially you can be very affable, entertaining and likeable. You are an entirely different person at play than at work. At heart you wish to be kindly and fair.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

COLDS AND PNEUMONIA.

IF a person with an acute febrile cold wants to avoid pneumonia he should avoid exposure. This is one of the on the side conclusions of a study of pneumonia made by Drs. Smillie and Caldwell in a rural district in south Alabama. In a large proportion of the cases of pneumonia investigated by them they found a history of acute febrile cold starting about one week before the inflammation of the lungs.

Most people are convinced that exposure causes infections with febrile colds. They think they have evidence to prove it. It will interest them to know that these two physicians found better proof that exposure during a cold would cause the milder disease to develop into the more severe lung infection.

The investigators found the same kind of bacteria in the nose during a febrile cold that was found in the sputum during pneumonia. They investigated several family epidemics of pneumonia, and in each instance there was proof of a family epidemic of common colds preceding the pneumonia epidemic.

Evidence accumulates that a cold with fever is a first line of attack for pneumonia. There is plenty of evidence that we can so handle a cold as to prevent pneumonia from coming afterward—a day or two in bed, a starvation diet or a light diet of fruit and salads or light vegtables, free drinking of lemonade or fruit juices and water. Carbonated, mildly alkaline waters will help. Above all, avoid exposure to rain, snow, and cold winds and drafts. These simple measures will serve to prevent a cold with fever from running into pneumonia.

Drs. Smillie and Caldwell find that pneumonia is less prevalent in the far South than it is farther North. It is less prevalent in the country than in the cities. They are of the opinion that city people develop some resistance to infections with mild pneumonia bacilli through the daily contact with them. But this is another story.

SYMPTOMS OF A CHANGE.

Mrs. F. B. writes: What is the cause of one's blood all seeming to leave the lower part of the body and rushing to the head, neck and arms, and, in passing, leave the body perspiring? Is there any remedy for it? I am 51 years old, and am much troubled with palpitation of the heart.

REPLY.

These are symptoms of menopause. They are relieved by ovarian extract.

OFTEN IT CURES SELF.

S. J. C. writes: What causes a disease called shingles and what is the remedy?

REPLY.

Shingles, called herpes, is a form of neuralgia. It is generally located along an intercostal nerve. It is caused by infection of a nerve root.

As a rule, shingles is left to get well of itself and it does. If the neuralgic pain is too great some salicylate is given for relief. Some simple ointment is used locally.

Wives of Tomorrow

"HELP FOR PATTY."

HERE is some helpful advice for Patty who is being bored to death by a confirmed "sitting date." "Mrs. D" has solved the problem of what to do with the man who comes calling because he has nowhere to go. It sounds painful but she says it works. Worth trying, Patty, any way!

"That poor child who wrote you that her family was making her miserable because of the man who insisted upon monopolizing her time and the home instead of him inviting her out, has my sympathy. But where is her mother? And why does she not do what any sensible woman would. I have four married daughters and believe me I looked after their interests. When any man came a third or fourth time without any program for the evening, I took a hand. As soon as he arrived I appeared and asked where they were going! Absolutely! If they said 'Nowhere,' I suggested some picture they could see. Not once did any fellow seem to resent the suggestion. Certainly it showed them that our home was no parking place. After a few dates I always asked the man to dinner or for a game of cards, but I thoroughly agree with you that no man should assume that a call is a 'thrill' for any girl.

"Sometimes my girls begged me not to interfere with some boy who interested them. But I played no favorite. If he called more than twice he had to plan something by way of entertainment. It is some proposition to keep four girls entertained and happy. I was willing to do my share but I was not going to have my girls placed as so many others were, with fellows just taking up their time and the girls missing their share of going.

"Men are very selfish by nature and they form habits very easily. I saw to it that they did not form the habit of using my home as a place to sit between dinner and bed time. The result was my girls had no 'dumb dates' and when we discussed your advice to Patty they all four agreed that when their daughters come along they mean to adopt my strenuous method and keep things moving.

"It is a fact that the sort of man who offers no entertainment to a girl is the sort who will also take up a girl's time for years and then marry some one else. The types are identical. So Patty should waste no time in getting rid of the man, or having her mother frankly suggest that they take in a show. I think a mother owes it to a girl to see that she has a good time and the right sort of man will agree with me.

Dare Interprets the Mode

IF any nice lady writes and asks me again what I think of smoking, I'll scre-e-e-e-eam—'n if you've never heard any of my family scream, you've never heard anything that even nearly approaches it except what goes off just before the Zeppelin arrives.

Anyhow, what in the heck difference does it make to smoking whether I approve of it or not? If you must know, I don't approve of it, and I don't like it and I don't smoke—but that's only for myself. How can I tell whether that is compatible with your ideas of daintiness and lovely-ladiness?

• • • •

Good-golly-gracious, what have I started? My initial "swat" has assumed all the proportions of an intrigue.

What Nation-wide feminine fancy do you think we are walloping? Here are some hints:

It's a fad that has been going for several seasons. It's silly. It has no intrinsic beauty. It is based upon a diametrically opposite viewpoint to one that has been held by both men and women for centuries. It can be and often has been harmful. It is not essentially attractive. It has no particular reason for having commenced, and less reason for continuing. It is something that almost every woman did.

What was it?

A lovely pastel satin evening gown is worth description to indicate to you some important features of the new mode. Its deep V-shaped decolletage, is ornamented with oval buckles of diamante and emeralds, and its high waistline is marked by a narrow belt trimmed with the same buckles. The skirt is pleated all around the hips, giving a full and very long skirt. A short cape hangs from the back decolletage, and two long panels continue this line to the ground. And it is most becoming to all tall figures.

• • • •

Ideas for sale! Just a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post brings you new and different masquerade costume suggestions, with complete directions on how to make several of them. The charm of individuality in costuming is worth the effort. And the leaflet tells you just how to go about it!

• • • •

Sh-h-h-h, a dress I am having made in heavenly gray satin for one of my lectures! Even so, you can make one if you wish—just as long as you blouse the back of the blouse a lot, and not the front, and as long as you swathe the hips, oh, very tightly. Not to mention letting the dress dip so long in the back, and the odd decolletage and the collar, which ends as you can see, at the back.

• • • •

For the Christmas Box.

Boxes, boxes, boxes! And now I can hear you howl like La Chic Secretaire did, because you know by this time that this is one of our pet eccentricities and you know that our idea of Heaven is to find all our favorite saints and authors sitting there waiting for us, each in a lovely little perfumed and labeled box.

But boxes do make such a useful and novel and delightful gift. Where does dad keep his handkerchiefs? Exactly—mostly no place! And you just know he would like a very beautiful box, to place on top of his dresser, in which to keep them. You can line this with silk and scarlet yourself—any one of those nice clean odofs that a man likes, such as orris-root or lavender.

And, mother or sister would love a hanky box, too, or a glove box, or a stocking box, or all three.

We hope you're not overlooking the weekly Dare fashion letter in The Sunday Washington Post. It has so many interesting things for you.

Ways of Volcanoes

WHEN people of ancient times saw smoking volcanoes, they made up stories of gods who lived under the earth. They said that the gods were at work in the blacksmith art, and that the glowing smoke came from the forges. The Roman god of fire was known as Vulcan, and the word "volcano" arose from his name.

Taal Volcano in Eruption.

Nowadays we know more about the nature of volcanoes. We know that the "smoke" is made up of steam and ashes, and we also know that the glow in the smoke comes from the reflection of lava pools.

Lava is a kind of melted rock, hot enough to be compared with molten iron. Lava is believed to exist under the earth surface at many points where it does not come forth.

In spots where there are volcanoes, there is a crack in the rocks and lava comes out of what is called the "vent." Sometimes a volcano has two or more vents.

In some way water becomes mixed with the molten rock. Then steam is formed, and steam pressure tends to make the lava come up toward the surface. Great bubbles form in the lava, lifting portions of the melted rock into the air. When the bubbles burst they form ashes and pumice.

Much of the melted rock flows over the ground in the form of rivers of lava. If it flows down a steep slope, it may go so fast that it is hard for people to get out of the way.

There does not need to be a cone in order for lava to be forced upon the ground surface. The lava may come through a rock hole and flood a level surface. But at most places where eruptions take place, cones have been formed long since. These cones are made up of lava which has cooled and hardened.

Volcanoes may burst forth under the sea, and this is known to have happened very often. There are hundreds of islands in the Pacific Ocean which were formed by lava from volcanoes. These include islands of the Japanese Empire.

In the Philippine islands is the Taal volcano—located on the island of Bombon. The crater rises from the midst of Lake Taal, and has a height of 1,067 feet above the water surface. The Taal volcano erupted six times during the eighteenth century.

A FASHION INSTITUTION

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

Nellie Revell, dean of American press women, most beloved of all theatrical trail blazers, descended upon Washington yesterday to prepare for the forthcoming presentation of Anne Nichols' new play, "She Walked Home."

Although Nellie Revell comes in the capacity of press agent, whenever she strikes a newspaper office there is more of the old family spirit than usually takes place in a moon of fortnights, or a fortnight of moons; whichever it is. That old song, "We Were Seeing Nellie Home," was undoubtedly written in honor of Miss Revell, after she and her boy friends had been to one of Aunt Dinah's quilting parties.

While sounding the siren for Anne Nichols' new play, Miss Revell has the joy of knowing there are several press agents out on the road telling the world about her motion-picture venture, "Stripes and Scars," being produced by one of the big companies out Hollywood way. Aside from two books, "Right Off the Chest," written when she was an invalid, and "Fightin' Thru," Miss Revell writes nothing but motion-picture scenarios and press stories for the theater pages. It keeps her busy, too—and cheerful.

Herman Bernstein, manager of the Theater Guild Acting Company, now playing its first subscription season in the National Theater, is all excited over the arrival in Washington of three very important personages in the guild. They are, to be exact, one-half of the board of directors and they intend to stay here several days to superintend the final rehearsals for "R. U. R.", the fantasy scheduled for next week. 'Tis the guild policy, so it seems, to have directors watch each rehearsal carefully. When guild companies move out of New York the directors follow the plays until they are produced. The trio that comes trouping to Washington is made up of Miss Theresa Helburn, Lee Simonson and Lawrence Langner.

Able to get hold of only one director, Lee Simonson, superdesigner, he was backed into a corner and came through as follows: "In designing the settings and properties for 'R. U. R.' I had to consider the theme and time of the play. We are dealing with a play that takes us into the future, to an age greatly advanced along scientific lines. I have tried to reflect in the scenic investiture of the play some idea of the advances which the author has predicted the future has in store for us." Well, those who have seen the modernistic furniture set forth in "R. U. R.", particularly the skyscraper piano, are now privileged to step up and pat Mr. Simonson on the back.

• • • •

While on the subject of the Theater Guild, it might be well to announce here that "R. U. R." opening on Monday evening, is the third production of the Guild season here and will be followed two weeks later by "Caprice," with Alfred Lunt, Lynn Fontanne and other members of the original New York and London production. For the last play the Guild will send its most interesting production of last season—"Wings Over Europe"—which is scheduled for the National the week of December 30. There will, of course, be other attractions by other producers before the December date.

• • • •

Fay Bainter, who hasn't been seen in Washington for some time, is on the way in a new play, "Passions of Jealousy," to play the Belasco Theater the week of November 3. That comes under the head of good news.

• • • •

Also, Mr. T. D. Bonneville, manager of Poli's, calls attention to his big announcement that "The Four Marx Brothers" are booked for a November opening.

WORK ON BRIDGE

CONTRACT BRIDGE.

IN our Friday and Saturday series of No Trump take-outs, we next in order come to the question of what the take-out of partner's one No Trump with a bid of two of a major suit should signify the intervening adversary having passed.

When Contract was young, this bid was considered to be a strength shower and an invitation to the no trumper either to rebid the No Trump or to try for game at the major; but soon it was found that a player with a holding not strong enough to bid two No Trumps, facing a partner with a five-card major and a hand not strong enough to bid three of the major or two No Trump, is seldom strong enought to go game in either declaration. Therefore the major two-bid as a take-out of partner's No Trump has been relegated to a subordinate position and today is distinctly not an invitation to the partner to continue bidding. The message that it conveys to the partner is very much as if the following words had been uttered: "Partner, I fear that your one No Trump may not succeed and believe we shall lose less—possibly make our contract—by my bidding one of my major."

With an unusual distribution, the no trumper might advance the major; if he had started by bidding one No Trump instead of more because of weakness and shortness in some other suit; but with two other strong suits and four cards with strength in the major named, he might be in position, knowing his partner had five cards of it, to bid for game in the major. It is also possible with an ample count for two No Trumps, but having bid only one because of shortness and weakness in his partner's major, he might be in position to rebid his No Trump. But these are most unusual cases; in the vast majority of all hands, the player who has bid one No Trump had better let his partner's two of a major stand.

The types of about the weakest hands that justify two of a major over partner's No Trump follow:

FILM STARS ACCUSED OF DODGING TAXES

and William Haines, featured screen players; Dorothy Mackaill, actress; George Marion, jr., playwright, and Robert W. Browne, an actor.

The Government's paper accused La Rocque of expending a portion of $1,444.66 in 1927 on liquor and claiming exemption for it under the head of "entertainment." Lewis was charged with spending $378.76 on liquor in 1926 and classifying it as "advertisement and publicity."

Assistant United States Attorney P. V. Davis said the alleged discrepancies were found in tax statements prepared for the two men by Miss Berger.

A second instance cited in the La Rocque return for 1927 was an alleged improper deduction of $13,500 on which exemption was claimed as salary for La Rocque's business manager. The Government asserted the actor had "no business manager" and that the money was a gift to his mother.

Davis cited among other charges that a deduction of $15,848 in the return of Dorothy Mackaill as payment of salary to a "business manager" was improper "for the reason that the taxpayer had no business manager."

The deduction of $248.79 from the statement of William Haines as "advertising and publicity" in 1925 was assailed by Davis. "As a matter of fact," he said, "we have information that he spent this money to go home at Christmas time."

The declaration involving Browne pointed out a deduction of $450 in 1925 for a chauffeur. "He had no chauffeur," the Government contended. Another accusation concerning George Marion referred to a claimed exemption of $295 for "advertising and publicity," which, in reality, Davis said, was spent to purchase two cigarette cases for his wife.

Numbers Charge Causes Arrest.

"Liquor should be taken for health, not for pleasure, he said, and upheld the "cocktail appetizer" as being good for the system. He declared that alcohol in a moderate-sized drink was completely absorbed by the body, becoming "transformed into beneficial energy."

"Many more deaths occur from overeating than from the use of liquor," he commented.

Dr. C. C. Sturgis, of Ann Arbor, Mich., in discussing the treatment of pernicious anemia, said treated hog stomach has recently been observed to be effective "and evidence suggests that, per gram of fresh material, it is more effective than liver, as a smaller amount is required. Furthermore, it has only a slight odor and practically no taste. In addition it appears possible to produce a stomach preparation which will be much less expensive than a corresponding amount of liver extract."

Dr. C. Jeff Miller, of New Orleans, was elected president for 1930-31. He is a former president of the Southern Surgeons Association, and the American Gynecological Society. He is a member of the faculty of Tulane University.

He will succeed Maj. Gen. Merritte W. Ireland, of Washington, who becomes active president with the retirement of Dr. Franklin H. Martin, of Chicago.

POLICE ARE BLAMED IN GASTONIA KILLING

CLOTHES ARE EXHIBITED

Charlotte, N. C., Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Declaration that the evidence showed O. F. Aderholt, Gastonia chief of police, was shot by one of his own officers, was made today by T. A. Adams, defense attorney, in arguments before the jury in the trial of seven textile union men charged with second degree murder in connection with the death of the police chief.

Holding up the dead chief's garments, Adams roared:

"Look at the clothes he wore. He was peppered with shot in the back from his head to his feet. The only way in which he could have been shot in that manner is by a sawed off shotgun and the only man on the grounds that night that had one was one of his own officers."

In testimony during the trial Adam Hord, Gastonia plainclothes officer, and one of four officers who accompanied the chief to the tent colony grounds of Loray mill strikers the night Aderholt was fatally wounded, had said he carried a sawed-off shotgun.

Aderholt's blood-stained, bullet-riddled clothing also received the attention of the prosecution in its arguments

Jake Newell, prosecution attorney, said it was proof of a conspiracy to murder the police chief and shouted:

"Shot in the back. Shot by cowards. Shot by murderers.

"Any answer to that? There can't be. Any shooting in front? Not a bit. The only shots he got were from the back and that's the proof of conspiracy. A conspiracy dark as night, black as hell."

Arguments by four additional attorneys remained tonight to be heard before Judge M. V. Barnhill, presiding, begins his charge to the jury.

Judge Barnhill today announced he might adjourn court tomorrow afternoon until Monday in order to have ample time to study the evidence and prepare his charge.

Dictation Charges Are Denied by Reed

Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, yesterday denied charges that W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and Joseph R. Grundy, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association, had "dictated" the appointment of Albert L. Watson to be a Federal judge of the Middle District of Pennsylvania.

Testifying before the judiciary subcommittee, which reopened hearings on the nomination, Reed said neither Atterbury nor Grundy was a lawyer, and that it did not occur to him to consult them.

HOTEL FIRE SMOKE KILLS EIGHT MEN

INCENDIARY SUSPECTED

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Eight men lost their lives and fourteen persons were injured in a fire that sent billows of choking smoke through the Portland Hotel here early today and trapped guests as they slept.

Reports that oil soaked rags and a broken bottle, which smelled of kerosene, had been found in the stairway where the fire started, were being investigated by the fire marshal.

The hotel, one of the oldest in Seattle, is operated by K. Mayeda, a Japanese, and caters to laboring men. The three-story structure was comparatively undamaged as the blaze was extinguished within a few minutes after fire apparatus reached the scene. Property loss was estimated at $7,500.

Bodies of the victims of the fire were found in many parts of the building. Some of them were still in bed, others were on the floor in front of doors they had tried to reach. One man was found underneath his bed, where he sought to escape the smoke, and the body of another was in a chair in the hallway.

Mrs. Mayeda, wife of the proprietor, received a broken leg and broken shoulder and a possible fracture of the skull. The other injured are suffering from severe burns, from inhaling smoke and from shock.

Reports that several Japanese children were in the building and had perished were found to be without foundation.

John Brink, 29, son of the Rev. H. A. Brink, of Lynden, Wash., was among those killed.

SUIT OVER PRINCESS BRINGS ON SHOOTING

TRIES TO TAKE BLAME

Denver, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—William Bryan Quigley, 30, New York and Denver attorney, who recently was made defendant in a $50,000 alienation of affections suit involving a Russian princess, was shot and possibly fatally wounded today in the apartment of his estranged wife, Mrs. Virginia Quigley.

Residents of the apartment building found Quigley standing erect with a bullet wound just below the heart. A pistol and several clips of cartridges were found in a bureau drawer. Three bullets had been fired from the pistol.

Before losing consciousness, Quigley said, according to police, "no matter what happens, remember, I did this myself."

Police found a copy of an agreement, typed but not signed, indicating that the Quigleys had been attempting to compose their martial differences.

Heiress, Found Out, Quits $40-a-Week Job on Stage

Chicago, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—An heiress to $7,000,000 quit a Chicago stage today because the public found out who she was

Laura Harding, 22-year-old daughter of the late J. Horace Harding, New York banker and chairman of the American Railway Express Company, had had a three-day debut in a forty-dollar-a-week role when her identity became known.

She picked up a telephone, expressed her displeasure to the theatrical press agent she supposed had given her away, and announced that she would not appear in the cast tonight. She said she would return to New York.

Miss Harding decided to try her talent on the stage after the death of her father last spring. She had attended school in Farmington, Conn., and spent two years in Europe and played in amateur theatricals. She went to Atlantic City, N. J., for a week's tryout and won a minor part as maid in "Thunder of the Air," which opened Monday as the premiere production of the newly formed Dramatic League of Chicago. The role called for only a few spoken lines, but with the small opportunity she had Miss Harding gave a hint of dramatic possibilities, the producer said.

"I do not want any publicity," Miss Harding told a caller. "I intend to leave immediately. I want my work to be judged on its merits alone. I simply will not have people come to stare at me because they have found out who I am."

The post went on record favoring local self-government for the District and also instructed its representative on the department executive committee to continue to seek the change of the post's name to the Stephen P. McGroarty Post, following its own action about a year ago.

Geneva, N. Y., Oct. 17 (A.P.).—A Curtiss Robin biplane en route from St. Louis to Boston was destroyed by fire a moment after the pilot, Ray Boyer, had made an emergency landing on the east shore of Seneca Lake, opposite this city, this afternoon.

Prof. Higgins Head Of Law Institute

Jurisst Defer Action on Pending Questions to Session in 1931.

Briarcliff Manor, N. Y., Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Alexander Pearce Higgins, professor of international law at Cambridge University, England, today was elected president of the Institute of International Law, a body of eminent jurists from all over the world, which is in session here. It was also voted to hold the next sessions of the institute in Cambridge, England, in 1931.

Prof. Higgins succeeds Dr. James Brown Scott, secretary of the Carnegie Endowment for the International Peace, of New York City. Alfred Merincx, professor of the University of Louvain, Belgium, was elected first vice president.

The institute's executive session was moved up from tomorrow when it was apparent that the conference would be unable to complete it's ten-question program. The last three questions scheduled, the legal nature of advisory opinions, the creation of an international bureau of waterways and the control of river navigation were put over until the 1931 meeting.

DRIVE UPON SHORTS BOOSTS STOCK LIST

CHEERS DULL SESSION

New York, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Powerful traders indulged in the game of running in the shorts in the last half hour of trading in today's stock market, sending prominent issues up 5 to 17 points, and lending color to an otherwise drab and uncertain session.

The rally was less vigorous than the rebound which came upon the heels of the break earlier in the month, but it was strong enough to regain nearly half of the ground lost in yesterday's collapse. Trading was in scant volume, held in check by uneasiness over the Federal Reserve brokerage loan figures released after the close, and uncertainty as to whether the bottom had been reached in yesterday's break. Only 3,864,150 shares changed hands, as compared to 4,088,000 yesterday.

Loans Near Record.

The brokerage loan figures again provided a shock, showing an increase of $38,000,000, which practically wiped out the decline of $91,000,000 the previous week, and brings the total to $8,801,000,000, or within $3,000,000 of its high record. In view of the swiftness of the rally from the low levels of the break early in the month, and the large amounts of new financing to be taken up during the past week, close observers generally had predicted a sizable upturn in loans.

The loan compilation disclosed that the midmonth interest and dividend requirements, and the lower and less attractive call loan rates, had resulted in a reduction of $66,000,000 in loans by corporations and individuals, and that the banks had been called upon to bear the burden of the upturn. New York and out-of-town institutions putting $154,000,000 into the market. The renewed upturn in loans was regarded as keenly disappointing in several quarters, as many traders have come to the conclusion that loans must be substantially reduced before any new and sustained rise in the stock market is likely.

Call Money Again Sags.

Call money again renewed at 7 per cent, but sagged to 6, indicating the passing of the mid-month credit requirements. There was little change in time money, 30-day funds moving slightly lower, the Federal Reserve condition statements disclosed negligible change, although the Reserve ratio for both the New York institution and the entire system sagged a little.

The day's business news was rather meager and not of a character to influence the market. Pennsylvania and New York Central Railroads announced huge orders for rails, but these orders will not influence steel production in the near future. It was reported from the Youngstown area that buying of steel by the automobile industry had improved slightly, but still held at low levels.

Several earnings statements for the third quarter appeared, most of which were favorable. Bohn Aluminum, however, showed a substantial decline, reflecting the downturn in automobile manufacturing. General Motors reported September sales to dealers of 143,483, against 168,185 in August, and 167,480 in September of 1928. Sales of dealers to users were 145,171, as reduced from 173,884 in August.

Many Issues Climb.

U. S. Steel, after dropping more than 3 points to 210¼ early in the session, rallied to 219¾, and closed at 218½, up 5. Air Reduction closed up nearly 17 points, and Auburn Auto 16. General Electric, Johns-Manville, Radio Corporation, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Western Union and Westinghouse sold up 5 to 11 points.

Leading Oils, such as Standard of New Jersey and Royal Dutch, were heavily bought at slightly higher prices, and leading rails sold up 2 or 3 points. Corn Products, International Paper and the International Paper & Power issues were among a few issues reaching new high ground.

Adams Express, which had last traded, about three weeks ago, at 629½, reappeared on the tape at 480. The International Combustion Engineering issue tumbled in response to the passing of the common div. 50. Columbian Carbon dropped about 7 points to a new low, at 283¾, but rallied a little from the bottom. The preferred dropped 17½ points to 70, then reduced its loss to 12. Murray dropped 10 points to a new low at 50. Columbian Corban dropped about 10 points, then rallied 6.

Commodity markets were irregular. Wheat and corn futures moved in narrow ranges and closed practically unchanged. Coffee futures, which have dropped from 3 to 5 cents a pound recently, rallied about a cent on short covering. Cotton lost from 60 cents to $1.15 a bale on further Southern selling.

BOND MARKET GAINS ON RAIL LEADERSHIP

Numerous Utilities Also Show Marked Strength After Long Slump.

CALL MONEY IS EASIER

New York, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Investment inquiry for bonds was extended today and in one of the most active sessions in several weeks the market displayed considerable strength under leadership of rails and numerous utilities. The latter had been lagging, but there was a noticeable improvement in most of the leading issues today.

Time money was again easier, but dealers are attributing the better demand for bonds to the unsettled condition of the stock market, which, they say, is sending investors to the fixed-charge obligations, especially after such sharp declines as yesterday's. Money rates are hardly low enough to attract much buying from banks.

First grade rails have now risen more than a point, on the average, since the advance was started ten days ago. Secondary rails have gained about the same amount, while United States Government securities have improved substantially, although they have been only moderately active. Industrials have moved rather slowly.

Rails Gain 3 Points.

In the rail group, gains ran as high as 3 points, although the better grade issues held to fractional improvement. Atchison general 4s, Rock Island 4s, Northern Pacific 4½s, Pennsylvania 4s, Southern Railway general 4s and St. Louis Southwestern 4½s were up about half a point each. Larger advances appeared in Chicago, Minneapolis & St. Paul general 4½s, Rock Island 4½s, Big Four 4s, the Erie issues, Union Pacific 4s, Missouri-Kansas-Texas prior lien 4s, Lehigh Valley general 4s, St. Louis Southwestern second 4s and numerous others.

Utilities participating in the upturn included American Telephone debenture 5s, Columbia Gas & Electric 5s, Detroit Edison 5s, International Telephone debenture 4½s, Illinois Bell Telephone 5s, Federal Light & Traction 5s, Milwaukee Electric Railway 5s and Public Service Electric & Gas 4½s. Gains averaged well over a point.

Industrials Stay Quiet.

Industrials were again rather quiet, Botany Mills 6½s converted an early loss into a 2-point net gain. Goodyear Tire & Rubber 5s and Lorillard debenture 5½s eased. Inland Steel 4½s gained 1.

Convertibles finished the day steady to higher. American Telephone 4½s and International Telephone 4½s made net advances of 4½ and 2½, respectively, after early softness. New Haven 6s again gave ground, yielding 2 points. Texas Corporation 5s, listed about a week ago, closed at the new high of 102¼ for a gain of nearly a point.

United States Government bonds and Treasury certificates were dull, but uniformly higher. The foreign list was irregular. German Republic 7s again showed activity and advanced a shade. Buenos Aires 6½s made a new low on a decline of 3¼.

Curb Review

New York, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—A brisk covering movement in the last hour checked a sharp decline in today's curb market, but not all of the early losses were wiped out. Final quotations were decidedly mixed, although most of the recognized leaders closed higher. Trading was moderately heavy in volume, the day's sales running close to 1,800,000 shares.

Wall street received another unpleasant surprise after the close when the weekly Federal Reserve statement disclosed an increase of $8,000,000 in brokers' loans, bringing the total to within $3,000,000 of the record high. Some of the late buying was believed to represent short covering, based on the possibility of a small decrease in loans.

American & Foreign Power warrants led the rally in public utilities, soaring more than 11 points to 130 after having dipped to 115 in the early trading. Electric Bond & Share rallied from 139 to 145, where it was up 3 points on the day, and Electric Investors closed 8¼ points higher at 229¾. Standard Power & Light, United Gas, United Light & Power A and Dixie Gas also recorded moderate gains. Some of the early selling in the utilities was influenced by the report of a special committee of the Investment Bankers Association of America urging careful discrimination in their purchase, and stating that many were overpriced.

Signs of heaviness offered in some of the aviation stocks, notably Curtiss Flying Service, which declined 5¾ points to a new low for the year.

Oils were mixed. Cosden touched another new high at 119⅞, but lost nearly all its gain. Gulf ran up 7 points and Humble advanced 2, but Vacuum was heavy. Louisiana Land & Exploration touched a new low level for the year.

Standard Screw, which was weak yesterday, rallied 35 points. Aluminum Co. of America and Dow Chemical preferred dropped 11 points, the latter touching a new low. Adams Express (new), Blue Ridge common, Shenandoah common, London Tin Syndicate and National Radio also sold at new low levels.

Revival of activity and strength in foremost Dairy was based on reports that merger negotiations with Southwest Dairy were nearing completion. Bohack and Lehigh Coal & Navigation also showed conspicuous strength.

BOB SHAWKEY NAMED YANKEES' MANAGER FOR 1930

RESUMPTION OF NAVY CONTEST SUGGESTED BY WEST POINT HEAD

Renewal of Gridiron Game Looms; Will Talk Eligibility.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Definite overtures for resumption of the annual football rivalry between the Army and Navy were made today by Superintendent William R. Smith, of the United States Military Academy at West Point and for the first time since the service schools broke off athletic relations nearly two years ago an early reconciliation appeared likely.

In a 300-word telegram to Rear Admiral S. S. Robison, superintendent of the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Gen. Smith made the outright suggestion "that football games be resumed," and extended an invitation "to meet me, preferably in Washington, where the situation can be discussed in detail and something accomplished toward renewing athletic relations between the two academies."

Concerning the matter of eligibility standards on which the Army and Navy split, Gen. Smith proposed "that any member of either body, who is declared eligible by his academy authorities, will be eligible to play in this game."

Rival Camps Differ On Eligibility.

The Army has always asserted its right to allow transfer athletes from collegiate institutions the opportunity to compete on the same terms as any other student. The Navy has held out for the "three-year rule," limiting its men to three years of varsity competition in all.

Gen. Smith's telegram, conciliatory in tone, pointed out that public opinion is strongly in favor of resumption of the colorful Army-Navy classic. He also took occasion to observe that, while the Cadet averages nine months older than the Midshipman, the Navy has a compensating advantage in that its corps number 2,000 as compared to the West Point enrollment of 1,200.

The action of the Military Academy head follows upon the activities of Representative Fred Britten, of Illinois, who advocated a post season game a year ago at Chicago. President Hoover has let it be known that he too is in favor of resuming the annual game.

LOBBY LEAVES WEST POINT TOTTERING

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—It begins to look as though the commanding officer of the United States Military Academy will have to make some concessions to the Naval Academy in the matter of the resumption of the Army-Navy football game. Within one week after President Hoover intimated that he, in common with the public, would like to have the game resumed as an annual affair, Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, the superintendent of the Military Academy, has dispatched a telegram to Rear Admiral S. S. Robison, superintendent of the Naval Academy, suggesting that this be done.

It is true that Gen. Smith stands by the Army's original contention that all cadets except plebes or freshmen be allowed to play three years of varsity football regardless of any previous varsity experience which they may have had. But he does not insist on this, merely suggesting this basis of eligibility. Thus, I take it that the general is prepared to discuss the point, with a view to exacting the best possible terms of eligibility, instead of restating the Army's old stand in a take-it-or-leave-it manner.

Say Navy Welched On Written Agreement.

If the Army is forced to make any concession at all there will be acute humiliation among the officers of the Military Academy, who have contended all along that the Navy welched on an agreement when football relations were discontinued in 1927. Even Gen. Pershing was quoted as saying at that time: "There is no question for arbitration in this case. I would simply say to the officers of the Naval Academy, 'Gentlemen, there is your written agreement governing a sporting event. Do you care to live up to it or not?'"

The feeling between the two sets of officers, while outwardly polite, has become quite hostile in the meantime. The Naval Academy, unable to deliver any convincing response to the rather unpleasant matter of the broken agreement, seems to have been organizing for political coercion ever since.

The Naval Academy lies close to Washington, conferring a real advantage on the Navy in the political agitation, and two congressmen there, the Honorable Fred E. Britten, of Illinois, and Hamilton Fish, of New York, both partisans of the Navy side, have been active and voluble on the subject every now and again for more than two years.

Asked Notre Dame to Blacklist Army.

Not only that, but in at least one instance which has come to the at-

East's Big Elevens Finish Hard Drills

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—The passing of the midpoint of the week brought a distinct let-up in the severity of football drills in Eastern colleges and a corresponding increase in traveling. Nearly every team which is due to play an important opponent away from home this week was on the road tonight. A few left early for intersectional games and a few more will not leave until tomorrow, but for most today was selected for departure.

Army, Princeton, Penn State, Colgate and West Virginia, among the Eastern leaders, had brief final workouts at home before boarding trains for the scenes of Saturday's games. The cadets used their regular mess hour for a signal drill and dummy scrimmage before leaving to meet Harvard. Bill Roper, of Princeton, gave the Tigers one more workout on their forward pass defense to keep Cornell from snatching a victory by the air route, as Brown did last week. Princeton will go into the game without three regulars, Whyte, Moore and Mestres, who are injured.

Cornell Drills Through Snow Flurries.

Cornell drilled through snow flurries to complete its preparations for the Tiger invasion, but did no hard work. Colgate also had trouble with the weather in its last drill before leaving for Indiana. A light drill finished Colgate's preparations. Macaluso and Litster alternated at the full back's post, while four men worked at the ends. Penn State's final workout before starting for New York to meet the powerful N. Y. U. combination was brief.

Brown and Holy Cross, whose opponents are nearer home, had more strenuous drills. The Bruins completed their preparations for meeting Yale, and Coach McLaughry called off all work for tomorrow, although the team does not leave until Saturday morning. Holy Cross had a short but hard drill, tightening its defense against Fordham's passes.

Navy's coach, Bill Ingram, put on the day's big surprise by shaking up his squad just two days before the midshipmen meet Duke. Five regulars, including Capt. Larry Koepke, were sent to the bench.

Waner Brothers Sign Contracts for 1930

Pittsburgh, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Paul and Lloyd Waner, brother outfielders of the Pittsburgh National League Baseball Club, have signed contracts for the 1930 season, club officials announced today. The Waners both were holdouts until the spring training season was well under way this year.

1,924,196 Fans Saw Pacific Coast Games

Los Angeles, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—The Pacific Coast League baseball clubs attracted a total paid attendance of 1,924,196 during the 1929 season, the third largest annual attendance in the history of the league. The figures were announced today by Harold Williams, president of the circuit.

Penn Speed to Beat Bears, Says Young

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—"I expect Penn's greater speed to beat California Saturday," Lou Young, University of Pennsylvania football coach, said today on Franklin Field. "I know the Golden Bears are bigger and more rugged, but I am confident Penn will rise to the occasion."

Coach Young's words were more pointed than what Coach "Nibs" Price, of the California Team, had to say in his talk at the Penn Athletic Club when both squads were entertained at a luncheon today.

"As to the game Saturday—I thank you." And Price sat down.

The California squad drilled on Franklin Field for two hours after the luncheon. Coach Price ran his players up and down the gridiron until he was certain all of his men had steamed out the kinks they had developed during their 3,000-mile train ride.

Workout Confined to Signal Drill.

He confined his signal drill to a straight running attack with a simple forward pass interpolated now and then. The drill was more for loosening up rather than for perfecting plays.

The Penn squad trotted on the field immediately after the California Team entered two buses and sped out to the Manufacturers Club at Oreland, Pa., about 15 miles from the stadium.

Ill Coach in Stands Directs Northwestern

Chicago, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Coach Dick Hanley, of Northwestern, has no time for illness when his Wildcats have such important business as a game with Minnesota to look after.

Hanley was sent to bed yesterday with an attack of bronchitis, but was back on the job today, although his physician had warned him to remain in bed at least one more day. He sat in the stands and directed a stiff workout, the last for the Wildcats before they try to wreck the big machine from up North Saturday.

With both teams eyeing Conference honors, the contest has assumed the feature place on the Big Ten card for Saturday.

SAFETY WINS 8-6 TILT FOR N. C. STATE

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Basil Melton, fleet Wolfpack halfback, skirted the side lines for 82 yards in the third period of this afternoon's State Fair week football game between North Carolina State and Wake Forest for a touchdown which gave the Techmen a victory, 8 to 6.

All of the scoring came directly as the result of punts. Blocking of a State punt by Brogden was converted into a touchdown two plays later by Wake Forest; blocking of a punt by Benton gave State its safety and return of a punt by Belton scored the winning touchdown.

Wake Forest led the contest at the half rest period, 6 to 2, after outplaying the Pack most of the first half. The lone Deacon touchdown was scored shortly after the second period started. Wright, of State, tried to punt, but Brogden blocked it and it was Wake Forest's ball on State's 18-yard line.

After Mills lost 2 yards at the line, Cox heaved a short pass to Quillen, who pivoted, shook off a State tackler who had his wrist and ran across the goal for a touchdown. Stout blocked the attempted dropkick for point by Cox.

State scored its safety eight plays later. State had received, failed to negotiate a first down and punted to the Wake Forest 9-yard line. Benton tried to punt, but Stout blocked it and half a dozen members of the Wolfpack smothered Quillen as he covered the ball behind his goal.

Genaro Wins Decision Over Jarvis Easily

Genaro won about as he pleased, taking twelve of the fifteen rounds. The New York Italian set the pace from the first round, carrying the fight to Jarvis, whose efforts after the third round were handicapped by a badly cut left eye.

In the semi-final bout Primo Carnera, Italian giant, won a technical knockout over Jack Stanley, English heavyweight, the referee stopping the one-sided fight in the first round. Carnera floored the Britisher four times in the 1 minute and 48 seconds that the bout was permitted to last.

Tech-Eastern In Today's Opener

Tech Followers Looking to Coach for Surprises.

By WILLIAM F. DISMER.

THE interhigh football series, and the beginning of a brand-new season in the realm of local high school sports, will start today as Eastern and Tech line up against each other in one of the most important games ever to inaugurate such a series.

For Tech, a greatly-weakened defending champion, will be facing a team which was its own runner-up last year and which possesses with but one exception the same group of youngsters which forced the Techites to its limit last year. And Eastern, already sensing a titular combination this year, will be ready to put up the fight of its life in an effort to get off on the right foot in what it hopes will be an all-victorious campaign.

But while the odds are all in favor of the Lincoln Parkers, Tech fans are still relying on "Hap" Hardell to pull them through, and they will be with him to the end this afternoon in the hope of seeing him pull another upset by defeating the logical contenders.

Kelly is Undecided On Line-up.

However, "Mike" Kelley, the Eastern coach, is going to be sure that no stone is left unturned to fulfill his fondest dream and his preparations for the "croocial" game have been so exact that he has not definitely decided on his starting line-up. Although eight of his team have already been assigned to start the combat, three positions still remain open on his team, and Kelley will not decide until just before game time who will fill in at these doubtful positions.

Possessed of an abundance of true and tried veteran material the Eastern mentor has two good men for the positions of guard, center and full back. Whether it will be Hogge or Mades, Nally or Shorb, Hayden or Burns, at these respective positions, was a question that Kelley was unable to answer last night. All six men have been in the Light Blue and White ranks before and each would go well with the team.

Eastern Boasts Veteran Backs.

Whoever Kelley elects to fill in the remaining back field post, it is certain that his group of ball carriers will cause the Tech line plenty of trouble. Charles Millar, Ben McCullough, and Everett Oxley, are a trio of backs that have romped through all opposition this year and should prove a serious problem to any forward wall.

In marked contrast to this sterling array of veterans, Hardell will present a line-up that shows but few familiar names. Benner, captain and end, and Goss, full back, are the only two regulars remaining from Hardell's 1928 championship outfit, while MacCartee, Spencer and Nelson alone were on the last year's Maroon and Gray squad.

However, the Techites have come through with victories in their first two games, which has satisfied all of their followers. Tech fans are only hoping that they might make it three straight today although they frankly admit that the chances of so doing seem light. At any rate it should be a great battle and one which augurs well to go a long way toward deciding the 1929 championship.

Yankees Made League Stronger, Says Barnard

Chicago, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—President E. S. Barnard, of the American League, believes his loop is 20 per cent stronger than the National League and he credits the New York Yankees for the showing.

"The persistent domination in our league has served to set such a pace that other club owners were compelled to buy better players," Barnard explained today. "As a result, the entire league is stronger. We have been bringing in better players and today rank about 20 per cent stronger than John Heydler's circuit."

CHOICE OF VETERAN HURLER TO SUCCEED HUGGINS A SURPRISE

IN NEW BERTHS

BOB MEUSEL.

By WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN (Associated Press Sports Writer).

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—The plans of Miller Huggins for the Yankees were so far-seeing that the midget manager actually provided, as long as five years ago, a course of action to be followed in the event of his own death—which occurred three weeks ago. Jacob Ruppert, commander in chief of the Ruppert Rifles, had such great faith in even the slightest suggestion of his diminutive field marshal that he faithfully followed Huggins' lead in announcing tonight that Robert J. Shawkey would be the next manager of the Yankees.

The veteran pitcher and recent coach of pitchers for the Yanks was second choice of the mighty atom to succeed to the managerial mantle. Arthur Fletcher was first in the Huggins handicapping, but the former Giant infielder and Philadelphia manager told Col. Ruppert he would prefer to remain in his present capacity as coach of the Yankees.

Shawkey's Appointment Is Surprise.

The appointment of Shawkey was a surprise to baseball circles, as the names of Fletcher, Robert J. Connery, president of the St. Paul Club, and Eddie Collins, the Athletic infielder and coach, had monopolized the speculation regarding the next leader of the club. It was recalled, however, that both Huggins and Ruppert always had thought highly of Shawkey's abilities both on the field and in the dugout, and that the late manager welcomed the former pitcher back into the fold as coach last spring after Bob had finished his active career in Montreal.

Shawkey signed a contract for one year before departing some days since for a hunting camp in Quebec, where he now is with a party of friends. He will return to New York on Tuesday or Wednesday of next week to begin rebuilding the Yankees—or more properly to carry on Miller Huggins' rebuilding plans with which he doubtless was familiar.

Shawkey, one of the game's best right-handers in his day, began his career at Harrisburg in the Tri-State League in 1911. He was purchased by the then champion Athletics for 1912 delivery, and optioned to Baltimore for that season and 1913. Recalled from the Orioles in midseason of 1913, Bob fitted into the championship picture so well that he remained under the big top until 1928 when he obtained his unconditional release that he might sign with Montreal.

Pitcher Joined Yanks During 1915.

The Yankees obtained Shawkey from the Athletics in midseason of the first Ruppert-Huston campaign in 1915. Jack Warhop, E. S. Cottrell and a fat check were turned over to Connie Mack for Bob's release.

In announcing Shawkey's appointment, Col. Ruppert said:

"Before announcing the new Yankee manager, let us go back a few years. Miller Huggins came to me and said we ought to make some provision for somebody to carry on for him in case of his own retirement or inability to continue at the head of the club. We added such a man to the Yankee coaching staff when Arthur Fletcher came to us after finishing in Philadelphia.

"Both Huggins and I looked upon Bob Shawkey as valuable timber for the council room after his playing days should end. He was returned to the club this season as a coach of pitchers, Huggins' second managerial choice. Fletcher preferred to remain a coach, so Bob Shawkey is the man, the new manager of the Yankee Ball Club."

Meusel Obtained By Reds in Effort To Add to Attack

CINCINNATI, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Another move to add batting prowess to the 1930 Cincinnati National League Baseball Team was taken here today by Sidney Weil, president of the Reds, who announced the purchase of Bob Meusel, for many years a star outfielder of the New York Yankees.

Meusel's purchase, which was a straight cash deal, after waivers were obtained, came two days after Weil secured Harry Heilmann, known as the odd-year batting champion of the American League, from the Detroit Tigers.

Heilmann and Meusel will play next season for Dan Howley, recently selected by Weil to manage the Reds next year.

The Reds now have twelve outfielders on the roster. They are Walker, Allen, Swanson, the 1929 regulars, and Purdy, Zitzmann, Crabtree, Callaghan, Heilmann, Meusel, Webb, Shaner and Bonowitz. Weil said six gardners will be carried next year.

Webb to Be Third Outfield Slugger.

In Heilmann, Meusel and Webb the Reds will have the most powerful set of sluggers since the days of their 1919 championship array of Eddie Roush, Pat Duncan and Greasy Neale. Webb, a long-distance hitter, was one of the main cogs who helped Joe McCarthy win an American Association pennant at Louisville the year before the latter went to the Cubs. The Reds secured Webb from the Pacific Coast League at the recent draft meeting in Chicago.

Howley may take advantage of Heilmann's hitting power and use him as an understudy to long George Kelly at first base.

SILVERDALE OUTRUNS MISSTEP AT LAUREL BY HEAD

McLean Colt Winner in Upset

Special to The Washington Post.

LAUREL RACE TRACK, Md., Oct. 17.—Misstep, the crack son of Upset, that races for the Le Mar Stock Farm, lost a hard race this afternoon when he was breaten out a head by the McLean Stable's Silverdale. Misstep was one of the five starters that went to the post in the Cecil Handicap, a dash of 6 furlongs, which featured the day's program.

The Upset colt carried 128 pounds and conceded lumps of weight to everything in the race. N. Barrett had the mount and in the early stages he kept Misstep under restraint. My Sis, breaking fast from the barrier, was out in front setting a fast pace. She went to the quarter in :23 2-5 and opened up a lead of two lengths. At the top of the home stretch she was still a length in front. The first half was run in 47 3-5. Misstep was third and on the outside.

Making the turn for home Barrett took Misstep around the leaders and at the last sixteenth he roused Misstep up a bit and the latter, responding in a courageous manner, began gaining on Silverdale. At the end he was going the fastest, but just failed to make it. My Sis bore over to the inside at the end and was beaten a head for the place.

Chestie Ann Defeats 2-Year-Olds.

Eleven maiden 2-year-olds went to the post in the first race and the winner turned up in Chestie Ann, a filly by Luke McLuke that Henry Horkheimer purchased from E. B. McLean yesterday. Chestie Ann was coupled with Servio and Island Queen in the field. Breaking in second place when the start came, Chestie Ann was soon out in front making the pace. Paddock, the favorite, was in close contention for half a mile, but making the turn into the home stretch Chestie Ann began increasing her advantage until she had a lead of five lengths. Paddock beat Ann C. three lengths for the place.

Torrence scored a runaway victory in the second race when he won by a length and a half from Reform. Robertson was substituted in place of Bollero, and, when the break came, Torrence quickly assumed the lead and, rounding the turn into the back stretch, drew away and, when straightened out on the back stretch, was a length and a half in front.

Fair Gold was second and Fred Parker third. They raced in this order until the last sixteenth when Fred Parker collapsed, and Reform, finishing stoutly, was up in the final stride to beat Fair Gold out a nose for the place. Lucie Ann was third, another head away. The latter, very slow to find her foot, was last of her field as they swung into the back stretch. She raced wide the remainder of the journey and, at the end, closed with a rush.

Sun Craig Wins First Start for Seagram.

The Seagram Stable evidently made a good purchase when it bought the Sun Briar colt, Sun Craig, from Willis Sharpe Kilmer yesterday. Sun Craig was one of the eight that went to the post in the third race. He scored in clever fashion. Leading his field from the start, Sun Craig was never headed, and, at the finish, he beat Scared o' Nothin by two lengths and a half.

Mr. Sponge, the favorite, finished third, beaten off five lengths for the place. When the start came Mr. Sponge broke very slowly, and in the early stages appeared hopelessly out of it. He closed a lot of ground rounding the far turn, but in the stretch he tired. His race was far below his effort the other day when he won in a gallop from Partisan and Breezing Thru.

Snelboe Captures Fourth In Stretch Rush.

Snelboe was an easy winner over the big band of platers that went to the post in the fourth race. This was a dash of 1 mile, and the full limit of twelve went to the post. Begin Over was the one to make the pace.

In the run to the first turn he outran his field and as they swung into the back stretch opened up a lead of a length and a half. Bagpiper was second and Snelboe third. Workman had the latter in hand. He was waiting until the final stages before releasing his mount from restraint and when he did he went around the leaders with a rush and in the final furlong assumed an easy lead to win going away by two lengths and a half. Begin Over shook off Bagpiper in the last sixteenth and was an easy second two lengths in front of Inception.

PADDOCK, in nearest pursuit of the winner, made repeated attempts, but was not good enough. ANN C., under pressure throughout, was unable to threaten the first two. BRAVE KNIGHT made up ground the last half mile. MARY ELOISE began slowly and closed a big gap. SERVIO had early foot.

GEORGETOWN LOSES HUDAK FOR WESLEYAN GAME

Gillis Named For Post in Back Field

Recurrence of Injury to Back to Force Hudak to Idle.

Transfer of Schmidt to End Considered by Lou Little.

By JACK ESPEY.

LADY LUCK seems to have crossed her fingers when looking Georgetown's way. The old gal simply won't give Lou Little's eleven a good break. With the West Virginia Wesleyan game only a day off, Georgetown is no nearer a solution of its back field problem than it was at the start of the season.

"Sleepy" Hudak, biggest man in the Blue and Gray back field and the only 1928 regular ball carrier who started last Saturday, now appears lost for the impending contest. He is suffering a recurrence of a back injury first sustained at the Ocean City training camp.

Unless Hudak recovers within the next 24 hours, Mancell Gillis, a sophomore, will take his place behind the line at Griffith Stadium tomorrow. With Gillis at full back, Georgetown will start a back field entirely devoid of experienced talent.

Transfer of Schmid to End Considered.

Were Hudak available for service, the back field situation tomorrow would be more satisfactory than it was in the St. Louis game, for during the early part of this week, with "Sleepy" taking part, the ball-toting quartet gained a considerable degree of smoothness and mastered several deceptive plays. Gillis, while possessing fine qualifications, hasn't had the time to become adjusted to the varsity back field, so the effectiveness of that unit naturally may be impaired tomorrow.

Coach Little is seriously considering the transfer of Ben Schmid, a half back, to one of the ends. Schmid started the first two games of the season, but gave way to Ed Leary last Saturday. With both Provincial and Brennan, the regular ends, on the sick list at present, and with the reserve flankmen falling short of requirements, Little thinks Schmid may fill in capably on account of his experience and strong defensive ability. It is possible, however, that Hal Heenan, one of the reserves, will start at one flank tomorrow. "Shing" Wynkoop, converted from a center, will be seen at the other.

Offensive Strength Little's Worry.

It is plain, in view of the foregoing, to understand why Coach Little doesn't expect an easy game tomorrow. Georgetown's offense will miss some of its power. Little isn't worried about stopping Wesleyan's attack, but he is dubious of Georgetown's ability to do a whole lot with the Bobcats' defense.

Coach Cebe Ross and the Wesleyan gridmen are expected to arrive here this morning. The visitors will hold a light practice at Griffith Stadium this afternoon.

ARMY HEAD SETS STAGE FOR MEETING

athletic relations with the Military Academy "at any time" was expressed by Rear Admiral S. S. Robison, superintendent of the United States Naval Academy today after receiving a telegram from Maj. Gen. William H. Smith, superintendent of the Army institution, proposing a conference.

"We will be glad to meet the authorities of the Millitary Academy at any time to discuss the resumption of relations," Admiral Robison said after he had received the West Point message. Beyond this statement the Naval Academy superintendent did not wish to make any public comment on the Army proposal of a basis for settling the eligibility controversy that disrupted the custom of an annual service game.

Game This Year Predicted By Secretary Good.

Pittsburgh, Oct 17 (A.P.).—The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, in a copyrighted story today said Secretary of War Good forecast that football relations between the Naval and Military Academies of Annapolis and West Point would be resumed this year.

The newspaper said the Secretary indicated that he and Secretary Adams had talked over the matter of resuming relations and had decided to call the superintendents of the academies together, "with an impartial authority on regulations, to adopt a set of rules on eligibility of players."

MRS. ROOPE CHAMPION.

Rye, N. Y., Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Mrs. George H. Roope, of the Brasburn Club, Boston, today became the United States women's senior golf champion by finishing the two-day, 36-hole competition over the Westchester Country Club course, with a score of 180.

GAME THIS SEASON PREDICTED—PEGLER

tention of the West Point officers, the Navy is said to have made rather roundabout efforts to persuade a third school, with whom the Army has been waging a football rivalry for many years, to support the Navy's position by making the same sort of demands on the Army.

I see no reason to be mysterious about this so I will report that I have heard from Army officers that the Navy side approached Knute Rockne, of Notre Dame, suggesting that he back up the Naval Academy's demands by sending a similar ultimatum to the Army.

Mr. Rockne is an uncommonly fine football coach, however, and I believe it has been a matter of no small pride to him that he is able to spot the Army the handicap which the Navy finally came to regard as insuperable and send out teams which could lick the Army consistently. I have never seen the Navy's letter to Rockne published and Mr. Rockne, himself, realizing the political delicacy of his position in the matter, has refused to discuss it.

Navy's Tactics Called Not Quite Sporting.

However, the letter has become a famous document in a quiet way, having been talked up and down the country wherever football men gather in hotel rooms at night before and after big games and perhaps the Navy in the course of the new discussions would like to take occasion to affirm or deny its dispatch and to explain the spirit in which it was written, if it was written. The Army officers from whom I heard of the letter, indicated that they regarded it as a political maneuver and not quite sporting.

Gen. Smith is suggesting to Admiral Robison that the game be resumed on the old basis and both schools have been so definite and firm about their contentions that one or the other must yield before the resumption of a game which they are now under semiofficial Presidential compulsion to resume. In other words, somebody's pride is about to be wounded and, considering how thoroughly the Navy has outmaneuvered the Army politically to date, I believe the Army will be the one to yield.

Politicians Overlooked Army's Cause.

The Navy has had to keep the agitation going, because as long as the breach remained open it was an unpleasant reminder that the Navy picked up their football and went home on finding that the terms agreed to were too rough. The Army, on the other hand, has merely stood by, waiting for the Navy to fulfill the original undertaking. If any politicians in Washington interested themselves on the Army's behalf, they must have been too busily occupied with other concerns to do justice to their cause. At any rate, there has been no Army propaganda or political action to cope with the energetic and resourceful work of the Hons. Britten and Fish on behalf of the Navy.

I believe the Navy is now willing to compromise slightly, before an arbitration commission. The Army is not willing to do so, but willingly or otherwise, Gen. Smith probably will accede to some modification of the Military Academy's rights under the old agreement, in which case the Navy will have won the row. The only other solution is for the Navy to discard its own self-imposed restrictions on men of previous varsity experience and play the best team of midshipmen above the rank of plebe against the best the Army can muster, also observing the plebe rule which was effective before the quarrel began and never figured in the controversy.

Stewart New Athletic Officer of G. W. Post

The appointment of Wessal Stewart as athletic officer of the George Washington Post No. 1 of the American Legion has been announced by Maj. L. E. Atkins, commander of the Department of the District.

Stewart is thoroughly acquainted with his new surroundings, as he assisted in the management of the G. W. Post Baseball Team last year, which won the local American Legion baseball series. He accompanied the team to Philadelphia for the regional games in which the local team won its first start, only to be eliminated in the next game.

BLACKSBURG, Va., Oct. 17.—Tommy Tomko, stocky little Tidewater lad, is back at left halfback in the V. P. I. backfield this week despite injuries received in the game with Penn at Philadelphia last week and will be ready for a whirl at the strong William and Mary Eleven in the Richmond Stadium Saturday. Tommy's stellar ball toting in the first two games put him the van of all V. P. I. backs in picking up yardage and he will be out to overtake his rival, Phil Spear, in the Indian tilt.

Spear, whose sensational playing drew the praises of the sports writers in the North, will be Tommy's running mate in the other halfback post. The stocky Portsmouth boy is filling Frank Peake's shoes this year in a way which brings back visions of the latter's deeds of one, two and three years ago. But Phil is finding Tommy a most determined pursuer and is in danger of having his ground-gaining antics equalled, even bettered, by the former Oak Ridge star.

McEver May See Action.

There is some chance that Macauley McEver, versatile veteran of the '26 and '27 teams, may share the halfback honors with Tomko. Mac's injuries received three weeks ago, are healing but he will not be used unless trainer Bob Warren says that it is entirely safe. V. P. I. knows that McEver will be needed just as much against William and Mary as against the ensuing Southern Conference Teams but will not risk added injury by using him too soon.

Mac is a brother of the famous Gene McEver, of Tennessee, and has the same natural football ability which has swept his brother to the conference heights. He is eager to air some of the family football traditions in Richmond's new stadium.

BYRD TO PUT REGULARS IN GAME

Gallaudet Team Not Underestimated by Maryland U.

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND, not underrating the Gallaudet football team, probably will start its regulars against the Kendall Greeners in the game at College Park tomorrow. Play will begin at 2:30.

Maryland's mentors have seen the St. John's squad, which Gallaudet held to a 2-0 cout last Saturday, and know that the Kendall Greeners had to be far better than usual to play the Johnnies such a close game.

The Old Liners, though, doubtless will send their revamped back field into action at the outset, with Dodson and Berger, the changed over ends, playing the half back position. Evans at quarter and Radice at full.

May Save Roberts for V. M. I. Battle.

Chalmers, Miller and other backs will see action but it may be that Roberts, whose kicking will be absolutely essential in the game with V. M. I. at Richmond on October 26, will be saved for that contest. McCray, of V. M. I., is one of the best punters in football and maryland will have to have its "best foot" against him.

Heagy, Maryland's cleverest end, also is not likely to take the field against Gallaudet. He is recovering from the effect of several boils and, although he has joined in the practice sessions, he has been kept out of the scrimmages.

Seat Pleasant Plays St. Stephen's on Sunday

The Seat Pleasant Fireman Eleven, which has been combined with the Winton A. C. of last year, will meet the St. Stephen's A. C. Eleven Sunday on the Boyer Stadium Field just over the District line. The game is scheduled to start at 3 o'clock. Last year the Firemen earned a 12-to-0 victory.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 17.—Neither Capt. Koepe, right guard, or Joe Clifton, slashing full back, will be in the line-up against Duke here Saturday, the former because of a slump in the Notre Dame game. Clifton is slowly recovering from body bruises received in that contest. There will be other changes in the line-up, it was indicated today by the coaches.

Continuing preparations for the Blue Devils, the Middies went through a lengthy rehearsal of overhead plays, both on the offense and defense, the session winding up with a skeleton workout and brief scrimmage against the scrubs.

While the Navy contingent expects to defeat Duke, the feeling is that the task will be no easy one. Considerable color will be given the battle by reason of the rival cheering sections, as the full complement of students at Duke and their 60-piece band, will make the jaunt to Annapolis, according to reports received here, and they will be assigned to sections in the north side of Farragut Field stands, directly opposite the regiment of nearly 2,000 midshipmen, and a merry din of singing, cheering and yelling will be the result.

Navy Drills Against Passing.

In today's scrimmage session, the scrubs were equipped with Duke's formations and plays, which the varsity generally succeeded in breaking up. Special emphasis was given to defense work against aerials, and to carry out the scheme, Joe Bauer, varsity half back, who does a good deal of the passing, played in the scrub back field and hurled the ball a la Duke fashion. The big team also succeeded in smearing this form of attack.

Either Chapple or Westhoven will be at right guard in place of Capt. Koepke, and Gray will supplant Bryan at tackle, to bolster the right side which was hammered by Notre Dame. Swan will be at left guard, and "Bob" Bowstrom, star punter, at the other tackle. Claude Hughes will be at center, with Beans and Byng on the flanks. Clifton's place at full back will be taken by Tschirgi, and Kohlhas, quarter, and Bauer and Toth, half backs, will complete the quartet. Toth is in place of Spring, ace of the group, but the latter will get into the game at some stage.

Duke Completes Drills For Annapolis Game

Durham, N. C., Oct. 17.—The Blue Devils wound up their hard training for the Navy game this afternoon with every man in great shape. Tomorrow there will be a light signal drill. The team and hundreds of students leave at 7:50 p. m. for Annapolis.

Thirty Blue Devils will make the trip along with several cars of Duke students and the cross-country team which meets the Navy harriers Saturday afternoon.

Men who are likely to get in the game are Hyatt and Peeler, ends; Bryan, tackle; Taylor, guard; Friedman and Adkins, centers; Russ, quarter; Murray, Godfrey, Coleman, Robeson and Rochelle, backs.

GRIFFITH VS. PAULINO.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Jerry (Tuffy) Griffith, Sioux City, Iowa, heavyweight, will have an opportunity to advance as a championship contender when he meets Paulino Uzcudun, the Spanish woodchopper, in a ten-round battle in the Chicago Stadium, November 29.

ON VIRGINIA GRIDIRONS

(Associated Press.)

DICK DAY is one man on the Virginia squad who is never sure what position he will be called upon to play when he goes out on Lambeth Field. At Episcopal High they still remember Day as a great center. He played that position on the Cavalier freshman team. But when he got to the varsity his trouble began for he shifted to guard, then to tackle and later back to center again. With the veteran Hunter Motley on the bench, it looks as though Day is slated to play tackle against V. M. I. He may, however, get on the field Saturday afternoon and find himself a guard instead. That's what happened to him against South Carolina.

Hampden-Sidney is taking a rest this week-end and will use the intervening time to prepare for a game in Death Valley, Saturday week, with Roanoke College. The Salem team meets one of its hardest adversaries this week—Emory and Henry, rated still as one of the best teams in the Virginia Conference, despite a one-point defeat at the Indians' hands last week-end.

Capt. Bill Hawkins of Washington and Lee and Capt. Al Hawkins of V. M. I. are not related, according to their own testimony. Bill is from Petersburg; Al from Norfolk. The former is a lineman, while the Norfolk boy is the Cadets' signal caller.

Hooper, V. P. I.'s 180-pound quarter back, is capably taking the place of Frank Peake, Gobbler triple threat of last season, as far as passing goes. His accurate throws in the Penn game last week all but sounded the Quakers' death knell. Owens, bulky full back; Tomko, a versatile runner, and the speedy Spear, star of the Penn game, probably will round out the back field in the William and Mary Game at Richmond Saturday.

Three Virginia letter football men definitely are out of the V. M. I. game and probably later engagements. Hunter Motley, star of the line, has undergone an operation; Capt. Johnny Sloan has his broken foot in a plaster cast, and Bill Byrd, end, still suffers from a bad arm.

V. M. I. GAME NOT FEARED BY VA.

Cavaliers Confident of Winning Despite Sloan's Loss.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Oct. 17. Despite dire predictions in Richmond and other Virginia cities that the Virginia Military Institute Eleven, champions of the State last season, will win by three touchdowns here Saturday, the Virginia squad has gone about its work this week with a feeling of confidence that the defeat sustained in Lexington last fall at the hands of the Flying Squadron will be avenged.

Fine weather the past few days has enabled the squad to put in some hard licks and much has been accomplished toward reorganization, following the loss of Motley, 200-pound tackle, and Capt. Johnny Sloan, injured in the game with the heavy Swarthmore Eleven.

Of course, Sloan's leadership will be greatly missed Saturday afternoon, but with Moncure to rely on, the backfield will have less to fear than the line. And but for the fact that the second string linemen are most of them green material, the forward wall should make a creditable showing against the Cadet line. At any rate, the contest this week-end will be well worth seeing.

Contest Should Prove Colorful.

The contest should prove a colorful affair. The entire cadet corps will come over from Lexington to witness the game. The cadet regiment will travel by special train, reaching here soon after noon. Scores of visiting girls, here to attend the fall dances, will be on hand. The attendance should total close to 6,000. The University of Virginia Band recently organized, will make its debut, providing music throughout the battle.

From present prospects, the Orange and Blue will line up Saturday about as follows: Turner and Paxton, ends; Day and Whalen, tackles; DeButts and Lankford, guards; Taylor, center; Moncure, quarter back; Thomas, or Faulconer or Kaminer, half backs; Bryant or Lewy, full back.

V. M. I. Completes Hard Work for Virginia Game

Special to The Washington Post.

Lexington, Va., Oct. 17.—The last scrimmage before the Virginia game Saturday was held by the V. M. I. flying squadron Wednesday, and the coaches plan a defensive dummy scrimmage against Virginia plays today with a final polishing up and signal drill Friday. All of the Cadet regulars took part in Wednesday's workout except Full Back Roy Dunn and Half Back Bernard McCray.

There is every indication that McCray's injuries from the Citadel game will not keep him out of the starting line-up when the Cadets face the Cavaliers, but Buck Wright will be likely to start in Dunn's place. Wright played a smashing game against the Bulldogs last week, and may get the call, though Dunn will be ready to relieve him if necessary. The other Cadet cripples, Chadwick and Willard, will start, and Haase will be at one guard post, with Aubrey Grow held out as a replacement at either guard or tackle.

"They give me double the amount of wear . . . yet cost less"
"I walk many miles every day but that doesn't mean a thing to my shoes and feet since I switched to W. L. Douglas shoes. I figure that they give me just about double the amount of wear that ordinary shoes give—yet they cost less. Besides they're so easy on the feet, good looking and hold their original shape wonderfully. I'm certainly a strong booster of W. L. Douglas shoes."

AWARDS ANNOUNCED AT FREDERICK FAIR

Games of Chance Closed Down as Complaints Are Received.

25,000 PRESENT AT FETE

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., Oct. 17.—Bright sunshine and crisp weather brought out more than 25,000 persons to the third day of the Sixty-ninth Annual Frederick Fair this afternoon. The crowd included hundreds of residents of Washington, Baltimore and points in Virginia and West Virginia. Operators of games of chance did a flourishing business, a number of persons reported being fleeced out of various sums of money. Some of the devices were closed by the authorities.

Much interest centered on the machinery and cattle exhibits. The former embraces the latest labor-saving farm implements and machinery, and the latter is regarded as the best pure-bred live stock exhibit in the history of the Agricultural Society. Here are nearly 300 entries, mostly home-bred cattle. In recent years Frederick County breeders have successfully competed with foreign professional exhibitors and have practically crowded them out of the field. The largest number of entries in every cattle class are by home breeders.

Women's Clubs Gain Interest.

Much interest is manifested in the demonstration exhibit of the Federation of Rural Women's Clubs in the Domestic Arts Building. Dr. T. B. Symonds, head of the Extension Service, University of Maryland, visited the exhibit. The first prize-winning receipt was awarded to the Unionville Club, Mrs. George Voveiff and Mrs. John Gaither being the demonstrators. Others in charge were Mrs. G. O. Hendrickson and Mrs. Lew Roelkey, Urbana; Mrs. E. R. Nicodemus and Mrs. Trego McKiney, Buckeystown; Miss Florence Fair and Miss Julia Davis, Pleasant Grove; Mrs. Cial Davis and Mrs. Hamilton Linthicum, Hyattstown; Mrs. Grayson Bowers and Mrs. Hugh Dean, Harmony Grove; Mrs. Eva Carlin, Adamstown; Mrs. Marshal Grove and Mrs. Edward McDevitt, Mount Pleasant.

Women in charge today were: New Market, Miss Lucille Nicodemus, Miss Helen Coughlin; Woodsboro, Mrs. J. A. Coalition Termed Revolt at Machine

Special to The Washington Post.

Stanley, Va., Oct. 17.—The "coalition movement" of Republicans and anti-Smith Democrats is the result of the resentment of the people of the State against the attitude and actions of the Democratic organization, Capt. John Paul, of Harrisburg, Virginia Republican leader, declared here tonight in an address on behalf of Dr. William Mosely Brown, coalition candidate for governor.

Capt. Paul said he saw nothing "unnatural about the coalition ticket." It is, he said, a natural political development which will eventually take place in any State "where conditions similar to those in Virginia exist."

Capt. Paul charged that Dr. John Garland Pollard, the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, long had been an "antimachine" Democrat and that he was given the nomination in order to "win back the Independents who voted for Herbert Hoover last fall to the Democratic fold."

CORNWALLIS' FALL TO BE CELEBRATED

U. S. SHIPS TO BE NEAR

Yorktown, Va., Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Soldiers and sailors will parade and the Governor of Virginia speak at exercises here Saturday commemorating the 148th anniversary of Lord Cornwallis' surrender. While the ceremonies are in progress the three battleships comprising the Second Division will be at anchor in York River.

Capt. J. E. Lipscomb, Lee's Courier, Is Dead

Richmond, Va., Oct. 17.—Death today claimed Capt. James Alexander Lipscomb, 89, often called "the father of Manchester." At the age of 20 Capt. Lipscomb enlisted in the service of the Confederacy and served throughout the war. For a time he was one of Gen. Lee's couriers. After the war he joined the police force of Manchester, which is now a part of Richmond. Two years ago he retired from active duty because of failing health.

One of his five surviving children is a son, W. B. Lipscomb, of 623 C street northeast, Washington. He was notified this morning that his father was dying, but he arrived too late to see him alive. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon.

At Capt. Lipscomb's special request the funeral sermon will be preached at the grave in Maury Cemetery.

Virginia's Apples Bought in Britain

Good Demand Early in Month Is Reported From Liverpool.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Virginia apples were in demand at good prices in Great Britain early this month, states a report sent to the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics by F. A. Motz, fruit specialist of the Department of Agriculture in Europe, and released here. Motz formerly was horticulturist at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, Va.

At the Liverpool auction October 9, says the report, "there was a good demand for Virginia Yorks, U. S. No. 1, 2¼ inch stock selling at from $6.81 to $7.30 per barrel. Virginia Ben Davis met with a moderate demand, U. S. No. 1, 2¼ inch stock bringing from $6.33 to $6.81 per barrel. Virginia winesaps were in especially good demand, U. S. No. 1, 2½ inch stock bringing from $8.27 to $8.52 per barrel. Virginia Staymans, however, sold slowly because of the generally poor condition of the fruit. Virginia Ganos met with a good demand, U. S. commercial, 2¼ inch stock, ranging from $6.93 to $7.42. The Yorks were in moderate supply, but only light supplies of each of the other varieties were available."

Prices paid in London and Southhampton were lower than in Liverpool, due largely to the large supplies of home grown and Canadian apples, the report stated.

Mrs. Rosena Belcher Dies.

Petersburg, Va., Oct. 17 (Special).—Mrs. Rosena Belcher, widow of Lorenza Belcher, died last night at her home in Chesterfield County after a brief illness. Mrs. Belcher was 71 years of age and is survived by two children, Alex Belcher, of Chesterfield County, and Henry Belcher, of Washington, D. C.

RED ISSUE ORDERED OUT OF WHIP TRIAL

JURY QUICKLY FILLED UP

Concord, N. C., Oct. 17 (A.P.).—The question of impeachment of a witness by showing he is an atheist or holds to Communist doctrines bobbed up today as the trial of four men charged with flogging a textile union organizer was begun. However, Judge A. M. Stack, presiding, ruled bluntly that "a man's religious, political or social beliefs are not competent" to discredit him as a witness.

The question was raised when C. D. Saylors, organizer for the International Labor Defense, took the witness stand to testify about incidents that occurred the night of September 9, when, the State charges, he, with Ben Wells, member of the British Communist party and organizer for the National Textile Workers Union, and C. M. Lell, Gatsonia striker, were taken from a rooming house in Gastonia by a mob and carried to a spot 8 miles from Concord, where Wells was beaten.

Only Four Face Court.

Fourteen men originally were arrested in connection with the flogging, but the number was reduced to seven at a hearing in Charlotte and the Cabarrus County grand jury returned true bills this morning against only four, ordering the other three released. The case was begun this afternoon. A jury was selected in 27 minutes.

Attorneys defending A. G. Morehead, Carl Holloway, Dewey Carver and Horace Lane had begun to ply Saylors, the first witness, with questions regarding his connection with the International Labor Defense.

"What has this got to do with the flogging case?" Judge Stack asked.

"Your honor," said Plummer Stewart, defense attorney, "I propose to impeach this man's testimony by showing what doctrines he advocates."

"We might as well thresh them out now," said Judge Stack, ordering the jury from the court room.

Pair Tells of Beating.

Arguments on the point followed. Judge Stack declared a North Carolina Supreme Court opinion of the past century holding a witness must believe in God in order for his testimony to be competent had been nullified by the fourteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which guarantees equal protection of the law to all.

The case was opened today without the presence of the chief witness for the prosecution, Ben Wells. Solicitor Zeb V. Long said that a subpoena had been issued, but that Wells could not be found.

Lell and Saylors this afternoon told of the alleged abduction and beating. They said Lell was ordered to beat Wells. After a few blows, they said, Holloway grabbed a strap with which Lell was beating Wells and began to ply it himself.

Commodity Rate Increase Opposed

Farm Bureau Plans to Protest Against Higher Live Stock Charges.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Oct. 17.—The Virginia State farm bureau is considering plans to protest to the Interstate Commerce Commission against the proposal of railroads to increase commodity rates on stock and feeder cattle from New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore to points in Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania, G. P. Holsinger, of Harrisonburg, president of the farm bureau, announced today.

The railroads have filed an application to establish new rates, which, to Staunton, Broadway, Galnesville and Brandy, Va., amount to an increase of 20 per cent over the old rates. Holsinger stated that between 1924 and 1928, 28,000 head of stockers and feeder cattle were shipped from Baltimore to Virginia points, and the increase in freight rates will seriously injure the cattle business in Virginia. Many cattle farmers who feed and fatten stockers have lost money this year, and Holsinger fears higher freight rates will further discourage the industry next year.

Final Rites Are Said For Staunton Woman

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., Oct. 17.—The funeral of Mrs. Belle M. Masincup, about 68 years old, who died at her home here Tuesday night, was held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the First Methodist Church, of which she had been a member for many years. The Rev. M. L. Dearlen was in charge. Burial was in Thornrose Cemetery.

Mrs. Masincup, whose husband, A. M. Masincup, died four years ago, is survived by four daughters and two sons, Mrs. J. P. Clarke, of Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. W. B. Plunkett, of Clifton Forge; Mrs. H. E. Demastus and Miss Helen Masincup, and Armistead and Andrew Masincup, all of Staunton.

DR. POLLARD PROUD OF VIRGINIA TAX CUT

TAKES BROWN TO TASK

Staunton, Va., Oct. 17.—Charging that Dr. William Moseley Brown has made "wild statements" that "have been proven untrue" and that "instead of admitting he was wrong, he has simply dropped these embarrassing points," Dr John Garland Pollard, Democratic nominee for Governor of Virginia, in a speech here tonight, asserted that the coalition candidate's "falsely predicted failure of a great public enterprise (the Shenandoah National Park) makes him a fit subject for a psychological clinic."

Prior to being nominated for governor by the anti-Smith and Republican State conventions, Dr. Brown was instructor of psychology at Washington and Lee University. A large crowd was at the Strand Theater tonight to hear Dr. Pollard. In part he said:

"Dr. William Moseley Brown's figures on the Shenandoah National Park project were considerably out of the way; not much nearer the facts, it was shown, than Dr. Brown generally seems to get. This attack of his on the park was simply one of the many instances in which he made statements which he afterward had to abandon."

Denies Political Levy.

He said that Richmond City employes were assessed a percentage of their salaries for campaign expenses. He was a little matter of $4,000,000 wrong in his statement as to available highway funds. All of these wild statements have been proven untrue and instead of admitting that he was wrong he has dropped these embarassing points.

"Now, when we bring out the true facts on the Shenandoah Park, and accurate figures as to our roads and our school system, he cries 'machine politics.'

"He called the park project 'the greatest fiasco ever perpetrated upon the people of Virginia,' and to quote his own language a little further, he declared that 'the present status of the park project is indeed amusing.' He not only falsely charged that the park was a failure, but he expressed amusement at this supposed failure of a great cultural enterprise.

"I should think that a true Virginian should be grieved, not amused, if he were genuinely convinced that such a magnificent movement had failed—grieved, not amused, that a dream of so many public-spirited men and women should not come true.

Points to Tax Cuts.

"As I have remarked before in a remark addressed directly to Dr. Brown, I am afraid his case is one of too much psychology, which one of our college students has defined as a science which seeks to explain what makes people do like they do do.

"Indeed, Dr. Brown's amusement at his predicted—falsely predicted—failure of a great public enterprise makes him a fit subject for a psychological clinic.

"Dr. Brown charges that Virginia has done nothing—has attempted nothing—in the way of a real program of tax reduction. Has he forgotten that during this Democratic administration every home owner in Virginia has been relieved of all State taxes on his home and its contents? That every farmer has been relieved of all State tax, not only upon his farm and home, but upon his cattle and his sheep and his farming implements? Does he not know that notwithstanding the fact that some localities have reimposed a tax equal to the abolished State property tax, the people of Virginia have been benefited to the extent of $1,500,000 net saving to the payers?

"This tax reduction program—which Dr. Brown says is not a real program—has made Virginia's taxes, in proportion to wealth, the lowest in America with the exception of but two other States, according to a recent publication of the University of North Carolina. And, according to another authority, the tax burden upon the Virginia farmer now, thanks to the program of which Dr. Brown denies the existence, is the lightest among all the American States."
